Hobgoblins Will 'Save the Children'

About 1,000 Victoria youngsters will forego the usual "Tricks or Treats" cry tonight when they venture forth to make Halloween collections for the Save the Children Fund. Cans have been distributed throughout the city by Mrs. W. W. McGill and children, instead of asking for treats, will be seeking donations to the fund. Above, Teddy and Estelle Lauritsen, 3941 Dawe Road, rehearse their part in the campaign, collecting a contribution from a neighbor, Mrs. H. W. Vondette, as baby Christopher looks on. Mrs. McGill is hoping tonight's effort will bring in about $1,000 for needy children. (Times photo.)

Weatherman in Pact With Dinky Demons

Will Provide Thick Fog Over City Tonight To Shroud Halloween Pranks of Young Folks

Synthetic spectres and home-made hobgoblins will have suitable spooky weather in which to cavort this All Hallows' Eve.

The official weather forecast calls for more of the heavy fog which has been appearing in patches throughout the Greater Victoria area for the past few days.

Clear during the day, fog patches night and morning, is the prognosis.

Friday night's fog caused most inconvenience to airline travelers. Low visibility—or no visibility at all—at Pat Bay and Vancouver airports wiped out all flights Friday night and early this morning.

At 11 a.m., Trans-Canada Airlines was back on normal schedule, but did not expect to maintain it in face of fog forecasts.

Fog-wise B.C. coast seamen kept passenger ships on schedule, and smaller craft out of trouble. B.C. Pilotage Authority was called on to transfer only one pilot in the thick of the fog, and did so with little difficulty.

Fog tonight will no doubt make the Halloween job more difficult for city police. But, in an effort to keep down street rowdiness and irresponsible pranks, at least five organized parties will be held, and dozens of private parties are planned.

Largest event of the night will be the annual party held by the Oak Bay Fire Department at 1703 Monterey. Firemen have built a huge bonfire which will be lit at 7 o'clock. Oak Bay Kiwanis are sponsoring a fancy-dress parade in connection with

Second Girl Slain Near Pittsburgh

ALIQUIPPA, Pa. (UP)—The knife-slashed body of a 16-year-old high school girl, missing since Monday, was found today under a pile of leaves and dirt on a hillside about 300 yards from her home.

The blood-smeared, battered body of Helen Jean Bryant was found as state police throughout western Pennsylvania searched for an apparent sex killer who throttled a six-year-old girl near Johnstown Thursday night, and a rapist who attacked a 12-year-old girl near Newcastle Friday night.

The two slayings and the rape occurred within a 60-mile radius of Pittsburgh.

Wolverhampton Moves to Top in Football

LONDON (Reuters)—Wolverhampton Wanderers, the English League soccer champions last season, went to the top of the first division today when they defeated Newcastle 3-2.

The Wolves raced into a 2-0 lead in the first 15 minutes, and, although Newcastle played well, they could not match the craft and combination of their opponents.

Wolverhampton has 20 points, the same record as Sunderland, but with a better goal average.

Sunderland, highest-paid club in England, kept in the championship running by whipping Arsenal in London 3-1. Inside forward Len Shackleton, now back in favor with the England selectors, made the opening for the first goal which laid the foundation of Sunderland's third successive victory on the Highbury ground.

Iran Prince's Plane Believed in U.S.S.R.

TEHRAN, Iran (Reuters)—Officials here consider it possible that Prince Ali Reza, who vanished Wednesday on a flight to Tehran, has made a forced landing behind the Soviet frontier.

A search for the missing prince, eldest brother and heir of the shah, resumed today in the rugged mountainous country between Tehran and Gorgan.

The prince left Gorgan Wednesday for a 200-mile flight to Tehran in a private four-seater plane.

Crippling Strike Ends in Britain

CHAIN LETTER IDEA IKE'S FINAL EFFORT

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower planned to telephone 10 of his friends today in a Republican "chain letter" plan designed to turn out a big vote in Tuesday's congressional elections.

He intended to urge them to cast their ballots Tuesday and to call 10 other friends to request them to do the same.

The president unveiled the idea Friday night at Wilmington, Del., in concluding a one-day, "propeller-stop" tour that took him to four key states where the outcome could determine continued Republican control of the Senate.

Vancouver Fog-Shrouded 4th Day in Row

VANCOUVER (CP)—A soupy, clinging layer of moist fog hung like a pall over B.C.'s lower mainland today causing three tugboats to run aground, slowing air and land traffic and providing a cover for hold-up men and purse-snatchers. It was the fourth successive foggy day.

The sun was expected to burn its way through the 400-foot layer of fog in patches during the day, but more fog was forecast for tonight.

All flights in and out of Vancouver International airport were grounded, but hope was held that some planes could be lifted during the afternoon.

The weatherman said the fog, described as "tenacious," will hang around all day "either as fog or a low deck cloud."

Few traffic accidents were reported as motorists apparently used extreme caution or left their cars at home.

BANDIT GUN MISFIRE
Hold-ups netted gunmen a total of more than $500. In one a young gunman aimed his gun at grocery store owner William Fitzmaurice and pulled the trigger three times. The gun misfired twice, but fired the third time as the proprietor ducked behind a counter.

The gunman fled without money.

A shabby gunman with a bruised left eye held up the Personal Finance Company of office and forced the cashier to hand over $317. It was believed he is the same man who held up a west-end jeweler Thursday night.

Another armed thief held up a suburban shoe store as proprietor O. S. Scoullar was closing the store Friday night.

He taped the wrists and mouths of Mr. Scoullar and a clerk with adhesive tape, took $20 and fled.

44,000 Dockers Return to Jobs

Piled-Up Ports Won't Be Clear Of Chaotic Congestion for Weeks

By JOHN DUDMAN

LONDON (Reuters)—Britain's crippling month-long dock strike, which cost the country millions, laid up 358 ships and kept 44,000 longshoremen idle, ended today.

Dock workers at key ports involved endorsed their leaders' proposals for a return to work Monday.

It was the largest dock stoppage since the general strike of 1926. Its spread to provincial ports held up imports and exports worth $550,000,000 and cut production in many factories.

The chaotic congestion of shipping and piled-up goods in the ports will take several weeks to clear. Effects of the stoppage will be felt from the factories to the shops for several months.

The end of the strike was signalled by a mass meeting of London dockers.

Before the London vote, sympathy strikers in Liverpool, Tilbury and Hull had decided to go back to work Monday.

Birkenhead and Rochester then gave their approval. Manchester and Garston followed, completing the list of eight ports affected in the country-wide walkout.

ONLY 10 OPPOSED
Strike leaders easily convinced their followers today that they had won enough concessions to justify a return to work. Only about 10 of the 5,000 dockers present at the mass meeting in London opposed the back-to-work call.

Main grievance in the strike has been the longshoremen's claim that overtime should be voluntary—not compulsory.

The strikers will return to work with an assurance that no one will be punished for refusing overtime. During negotiations overtime will be voluntary.

Civil Servants Firmly Deny Inefficiency Slur

By TOM GOULD
NANAIMO — British Columbia's civil servants Friday decided to "turn the other cheek" and answer the B.C. Social Credit League's "willful inefficiency" charge with a mild rebuke.

The B.C. Government Employees' Association convention here passed an answering resolution, which was in effect a mere reaffirmation of the association's policy as set out in its constitution.

"Be it resolved that the delegates in convention reiterate that we shall continue to co-operate with our employer the government of British Columbia, regardless of party or creed, to obtain and maintain the highest degree of efficiency within the government service," said the resolution.

It was passed after many delegates made it clear they bitterly resented the attack made on them by the Socials, who claimed the government workers are being "willfully inefficient" apparently with a view to discrediting the government for political advantage.

NEW PRESIDENT
President Carl Hauck of Vancouver (re-elected today over Frank Carr, Victoria) opened the attack on the Social League resolution immediately after Provincial Secretary Black's disclaimer. Mr. Black said the accusation was "a complete surprise to the cabinet" and he did not "know any basis for the charge."

Hauck denied the Social accusation but said "so many of us are so damned confused we don't know what the government wants us to do."

"Take this mess at BISCO. No one can tell me it is the fault of four or five guys who have spent their lives trying to do a job."

Hauck's remark was loudly applauded.

RED HERRING
"Isn't this attack a red herring, designed to cloud the issue, and deter us from our original purposes?" asked Bill Lowe, Essondale delegate.

Emery Scott, Penticton, said "If we get all steamed up about this Social Credit resolution we will be playing right into their hands. That's what they want us to do."

Dennis Heinekey, Victoria, termed the "slur" a "small, petty, cheap attack by the Social Credit convention."

Other remarks ranged from "the most dastardly attack ever made on any civil servants," to a "cowardly slap in the face."

"Just because they are irresponsible, must we also be irresponsible?" asked one delegate.

The convention rejected unanimously a resolution from executive member George Horridge, which demanded the premier repudiate the allegation, or refer the issue to the select standing legislative committee on public accounts for a full investigation.

The resolution demanded the committee be given the right to subpoena the mover and second of the Social Credit attack.

John Murrell, Chilliwack, said the failure of cabinet ministers to protest "such a blanket resolution" was disloyalty on the part of the employer. The emphasis of any protest we might make should be placed on the failure of the government to refute such a resolution," he said.

R. Jones, Terrace, said the speech made at the convention by Provincial Secretary Wesley Black was "a neat piece of surgery," the government was "severed from its own party," he said, adding: "Mr. Black's speech was not sufficient answer."

Sydney Burton, of Woodlands School, said: "The ministers are already embarrassed. Our president gave a good enough answer. The government would like us to make an irresponsible statement, but I don't think we should do it."

The convention also decided to completely ignore a second resolution passed at the Social convention asking full rights of taking an active role in politics for civil servants.

Their constitution does not prevent a member from being a member of any political party, but does prohibit them from "active participation."

Civil Servants Reject Strike By 60-38 Vote

Education Plan to Overcome Govt. 'Cheap Labor Policy'

Times Legislative Reporter

NANAIMO—B.C. Government Employees' Association convention Friday rejected strike action by a 60-38 vote, and hammered out a "public education" program to overcome the Social Credit government's "cheap labor policy."

"We are going to have to shame the government into granting us fair wages," declared association general secretary E. P. O'Connor.

The delegates, still smarting from the "willful inefficiency" charge hurled at B.C.'s civil service by the recent B.C. Social Credit league convention spent three hours debating whether to call a strike vote referendum.

Mr. O'Connor said Premier W. A. C. Bennett asked an association delegation last July whether tradesmen employed by the government would rather work at their present wages, or have the government contract all such work.

"The only way they could do it cheaper would be by hiring scab labor," said Mr. O'Connor. "Until the members of this organization are prepared to die their economic strength, we must use everything in our power to obtain our requests."

"We must shame the government in the court of public opinion," he said.

"Mr. Bennett is borrowing $60,000,000 for the PGE extension; millions of dollars for roads, and claims to be reducing the provincial debt by millions of dollars."

"Can we take the inference from this that he is pursuing a cheap labor policy in refusing to grant us wage increases?" he asked.

The Friday night session of the convention was for the purpose of determining the future policies to be followed by the BCGEA in obtaining arbitration rights, five-day week, and wage hikes.

Knocking Heads Against Wall

R. Jones, Terrace representative, said: "Our members are so 'cheered off' so bored, and so unhappy they will stop at no action short of a strike ballot."

"We are knocking our heads against a brick wall in trying to deal with this government," he said. "If we don't arrive at something definite after this convention, we can only go back to work."

Research secretary Jack McGuire said the "Government is talking about chicken feed when it talks about wage adjustments it has made," he said, the percentage of total government expenditures appropriated for civil servant wages dropped from 27 per cent in 1949 to 20 per cent in 1953.

"Expenditures are up $50,000,000 while wage costs are up only $3,000,000," said Mr. McGuire. Speaker after speaker blasted the government for its failure to negotiate with the government workers' association, and many said strike action was the only method of breaking the "impasse" in association-cabinet relations.

S. W. Kelly, Rossland-Trail, said: "If we have to go on strike, let's go on strike. I don't mind being knocked down, but I don't want my teeth kicked in."

One delegate recommended suing the government in the civil courts, for its failure to abide by arbitration proceedings now loosely outlined in the Civil Service Act.

Mr. O'Connor attacked the government's failure to extend the equal pay to act to female government workers.

Withdrawal of Group Threatened

"We have hundreds of female employees in the civil service getting $30 a month less than their male counterpart for doing exactly the same job," he said.

"Let's show some guts," shouted D. M. Baird, Comox. "We have to take a referendum on a strike vote. Mr. Black's (Provincial Secretary Wesley Black) remarks today reminded me of Aesop's Fables."

"If nothing definite is decided by this convention, the Comox group will withdraw from this association," he threatened.

One delegate warned the convention withdrawal of the civil service labor force would cause a grave problem in provincial jails, mental homes and other institutions. "What would happen if we approved a strike immediately," he asked. "We are not ready for such action."

Hiram Carney, secretary of the Victoria branch, said "For two years the cabinet has had before it a recommendation to increase tradesmen's wages. By God, it's about time we took some action."

Mr. Jones said the government employees "are not asking for the keys to the finance department office. All we are asking for is a condition enjoyed by organized labor for many years, to bargain collectively, through arbitration."

He introduced a resolution which read: Whereas it appears from Mr. Black's frivolous statements that the civil service is to be denied the democratic right of arbitration enjoyed by organized labor; therefore, be it resolved, that if a satisfactory system of arbitration cannot be worked out within three months of application, the executive be empowered to take a referendum for a strike vote."

The resolution was defeated by a vote of 60-38.

The convention deferred consideration of a resolution calling for wages hearings before a commission headed by Chief Justice Gordon Sloan until Saturday's sessions, but approved resolutions calling for: lobbying of all M.L.A.'s in an attempt to gain support in the Legislature; establishing a policy of public education, through a newspaper and radio education campaign; support of arbitration without compulsion; study of a joint-council set-up, similar to that used by the Alberta government in dealing with its employees.

Civil Service Defense— Too Little and Too Late

By ART STOTT

THE Bennett Government knew this week that it had made a mess of its relations with the civil service.

The resolution carried by the Social Credit Convention in Vancouver left all branches under a blanket condemnation.

"We believe," it read, "that numerous civil servants are being wilfully inefficient in the discharge of their duties, apparently with a view to discrediting the government for political advantage."

Civil servants, all of them, were left to look at one another and wonder, "Is it you? Is it Joe in the next department? Or is it me?"

The Vancouver convention

Doubts From Delay

Evidently not—not until a week later when Provincial Secretary Wesley Black stood before the Government Employees' Association at Nanaimo yesterday and said his piece—a piece brief but carefully composed, as cabinet members sought to get off the hook on which their convention delegates had placed them.

"Frankly," said Mr. Black, "this resolution came as a complete surprise to your Government, which is not presently aware of the basis for such an observation."

A week's delay in replying to condemnation has been too long. It leaves unsettling doubts. Some of the civil servants think the attack on them was government-inspired, was farmed out to the constituencies, brought to public notice in the convention and allowed to simmer a while to see how the people of British Columbia reacted. Kite-flying, they point out, is not restricted to any particular political season.

With the employees' convention coming up, did the Government consider such a resolution valuable to put the civil service off balance? Some of the resolutions at Nanaimo are tough. Is it good strategy to treat the Nanaimo gathering like a fighter in a rough-and-tumble brawl, kicking him in the ankles so he can't get set to deliver a punch?

And then the major question arises: Did the Social Credit convention know what it was doing? Apparently all the delegates did not.

Who's Inefficient?

The convention set itself up as a judge of efficiency. It was so efficient that vice-presidents didn't know what resolutions had been passed, or for that matter, what they meant.

Could they possibly have understood the inefficiency criticism when a woman vice-president says it's all "much ado about nothing" and that the resolution was "not necessarily an indictment?"

It's not too unnatural a thought to assume that some Social Crediters look at the jobs non-Social Crediters hold in the service and think that those pay cheques might be pretty welcome in the pockets of people who have supported the party. It may be a little venal, but it would be quite human to have that view.

And it's understandable enough to have people without knowledge trafficking in mis-formation which might make some civil servants appear inefficient. With so large a group of employees, it's unreasonable, in fact, to suggest that every one is the height of efficiency. Regardless of these points, the injustice that was done cried aloud for immediate correction. The civil service has been shabbily treated. But the injury imposed upon it is probably less than that inflicted on the Government. If the civil service is inefficient, wilfully or otherwise, it was the Government's job to do something about it. If the civil service is efficient—and it seems to have handled the business of British Columbia satisfactorily over a long period of time while governments have come and gone—then surely the ministers might have jumped to its immediate defense. Having failed to act promptly, they suffer guilt by radiation.

And where were the government leaders who might have defended the civil service? Where were the ministers whose department staffs were under attack? Was there none among them who dared to be a Daniel?

performance was one to shine as clear heroism. Here were the delegates, the ordinary men and women of Social Credit faith, attacking the mighty civil service, bound and gagged by the nature of its position as servant of the public, thrown to the floor and kicked. Where could more courageous people be found than those who put the boots to the service so securely trusted?

In the lengthy interview, Mr. Bennett, holidaying at his home here, itemized several of his "misstatements" by Mr. Laing.

Mr. Laing has been on tour during recent weeks, speaking in provincial centres, where he criticized government policies.

Earlier this week he said the Social Credit government "has reached the point of diminishing returns" in its attempt to get more tax money.

He said British Columbians should know the facts of the government financial picture.

"It's going to come out eventually anyway, and the people of B.C. can stand the shock."

In the interview today Mr. Bennett denied the policies of his government are hurting business, and he said:

"Contrary to Mr. Laing's statements, statistics will bear out that B.C. retail sales compare favorably with all Canada compared to other years on an increased basis. In other words, business is good in B.C. compared to the rest of Canada."

He also denied being on the convention platform at the time the Social Credit League convention discussed a controversial civil service resolution.

The resolution charged some civil servants with "wilful inefficiency," and its adoption brought immediate protest from many quarters.

"I was not even in the hall," said Mr. Bennett. "The fact is I was doing public business."

Premier Likens Laing to Hitler; Denies Liberal Leader's Charges

KELOWNA (CP) — Premier Bennett in an interview today hit out at provincial Liberal Leader Arthur Laing, charging a series of what he termed "misstatements" from the Liberal party leader.

"The difference between Mr. Laing and Adolph Hitler," said Mr. Bennett, "is that while Hitler believed in one big misstatement, Mr. Laing apparently believes in telling many small ones, always hiding behind a statement such as 'I have been reliably informed,' or 'I have good information.'"

He said an "apparent misstatement" by Mr. Laing that Frohisher's had made no deposit with the government in its plan for northern surveys was untrue.

"This statement is completely untrue," he said, and he termed another report he credited to Mr. Laing on Peace River gas as an "apparent misstatement."

"Mr. Laing is reported as saying," said Mr. Bennett, "that the B.C. government is entering into arrangements to allow Peace River natural gas to be piped through Alberta, missing central B.C."

"This is absolutely untrue and when the Peace River gas is utilized it will come through central B.C."

He added, "While I have a lot of sympathy for Mr. Laing in his frustration in endeavoring to lead the small remnant of the Liberal Party, yet I believe for the good of the province, he should be more careful in his spoken statements, lest they do harm to the development of this great province."

In his interview, Mr. Bennett itemized each statement he dealt with from Mr. Laing as "apparent misstatement No. 1," "apparent misstatement No. 2," running through a list down to No. 5.

After dealing with the civil servants' resolution, Peace River gas, and business conditions, he said:

"Apparent misstatement No. 3: Mr. Laing is reported as stating that he knew for a fact that the Pacific Great Eastern Railway would never be built between Squamish and North Vancouver. All people in B.C. know this to be untrue as construction now is taking place under many works contracts."

Under what he termed "apparent misstatement No. 5," the premier said:

"FINANCES BEST EVER"

"Mr. Laing suggests that the sales tax revenue will be down 18 per cent this year. This is untrue. While it may be that the sales tax revenue for the fiscal year may not exceed last year's by two-thirds (the amount the tax was increased, from 3 to 5 per cent), this will be because of extra exemptions given on children's clothing, boots and shoes, meals up to a dollar, and the unchanged tax on small sales."

Mr. Bennett said the old tax was in effect until March 31, with the new 5 per cent becoming effective in April.

"I want to state emphatically that, despite Mr. Laing's implied suggestion that our policies are hurting business, that B.C. finances are in the best shape ever and our policy of pay as you go will continue."

WHAT'S YOUR OPINION?

By TONY DICKASON and IRVING STRICKLAND

Question: Do you think civil servants are "wilfully inefficient"?

Lewis Rusk, store owner, 3214 Douglas Street: "Not generally. There are a number of odd cases, but you can't hang them all. By nature of the work they are non-competitive and thus probably not as efficient as counterparts in business."

Bob Bailey, butcher, 550 David Street: "I think the civil servants do a fine job considering their pay is not very high, though to counterbalance this they have security and something to look forward to."

J. H. McCloy, store owner, 1945 Bee Street: "It's a broad subject, but I would say no. No person is wilfully inefficient these days. But the situation should be investigated and brought out into the open."

L. Knott, service station owner, 1290 Topaz Avenue: "I don't think employees are wilfully inefficient. I think it is the system they work under. Government procedure means red tape, and this is so darn slow to cut through."

Mrs. Hazel Vray, store employee, 1834 Stanley Avenue: "Certainly the civil servants' treatment of the public could be improved. You get shoved around from one person to another before getting any service. No, don't quote me as saying they are wilfully inefficient."

War Impossible In 10 Years, Says Dr. Shrum

Scientists Develop Invincible Weapons

VANCOUVER (BUP)—Development of new weapons may make war impossible within five to 10 years, Dr. Gordon M. Shrum told the B.C. Chamber of Commerce Friday.

Dr. Shrum, head of the University of B.C. physics department, said scientists were the only members of the community who could stop war. They would do it through development of invincible weapons, he said.

"The threat of war will die off with constant advances and production to keep abreast of any prospective enemy," Dr. Shrum said.

The physics department head added that he expected to see tremendous developments in both military and civilian application of scientific discoveries in the next 50 years.

"If I told anyone what I think is in store they would say I am crazy," he added.

G. S. Thorvaldson of Winnipeg, president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, told the convention that labor groups were demanding too much from management.

"Labor must realize gains do not come from increasing its demands on industry," he said.

ISLANDERS NAMED
The B.C. chamber Friday elected seven business leaders to represent Vancouver Island on its directorate. Chosen were J. Stuart Keate, G. F. Dunn and E. W. Arnott, all of Victoria; Norman Schroeder, Port Alberni; H. C. Stone, Duncan; Robert Mawhinney, Nanaimo, and J. N. Olson, Courtenay. Earlier President Arnott told the chamber's third annual meeting that other Canadian provinces are catching up with B.C.'s high wage rate—and a good thing, too.

Brando Confirms Plans for Wedding

BANDOL, France (UP)—Movie actor Marlon Brando said today he considers himself officially betrothed to a French fisherman's stepdaughter. "The only girl I ever wanted to marry."

The unpredictable, moody Brando, who has brushed off Hollywood beauties, expressed his feelings in the most proper way with his fiancée, Josiane Mariani, and her mother sitting beside him.

"I consider myself officially engaged to this lovely girl," Brando told reporters on the cliff-top terrace of a villa overlooking the blue Mediterranean, "and I bought her an engagement ring I bought for her."

Josiane's beautiful black eyes were brimming with tears. "She is a shy girl," Brando explained, "and is not used to having her innermost feelings exposed to everyone."

Brando said he approved of the engagement announcement in a Toulon newspaper Friday. "I wanted to make it official because I know how in small towns when a man is staying with the family of a lovely girl the people start talking immediately," Brando said.

The talk already had shown its effect on Brando's future father-in-law, Paul Berenger, a rugged fisherman.

Berenger said at dawn, as he finished hauling in his sardine nets, that he was fed-up with the hullabaloo over the engagement of his stepdaughter. Berenger, unloading his catch from a 25-foot power boat, said he had been teased unmercifully by fellow townsmen since announcing that Josiane Mariani, his stepdaughter, would marry the muscular actor.

But the rugged fisherman said he had no doubt that Brando, who followed the former artist's model 3,000 miles to this pink and white Mediterranean fishing village, would marry Josiane.

"He had better," Berenger said testily. Brando first met Josiane at a psychiatric clinic in New York where he was being treated. At that time she was giving French lessons to a psychiatrist's children.

One night, according to the story being told in Bandol, the doctor gave a party for Brando and that was when he met Josiane.

"Within two hours of meeting me, Marlon has asked me to become his wife," Josiane said.

U.S. Rejects Non-Aggression Pact Proposal

Adenauer Plan for East-West Pact Gets Cool Reception in Washington

WASHINGTON (AP)—While keeping silent officially, United States diplomats today privately turned thumbs down on West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's proposal for an eventual non-aggression pact between the West and the Soviet bloc.

Requests for official reaction to Adenauer's suggestion, made in a speech here Friday, were met with a "No comment" at the state department.

However, officials familiar with American policies, confided the Adenauer proposal goes far beyond any position the U.S. could take in the foreseeable future.

The chief reason cited was that neither President Eisenhower nor State Secretary Dulles has any intention of sanctioning, even indirectly, the domination of great areas of the world.

Felix von Eckhardt, West German information chief, apparently sensed the possibility of U.S. objections to the Adenauer plan because he called a press conference several hours after the chancellor's talk to the National Press Club.

Von Eckhardt told reporters that what Adenauer had in mind was a series of agreements to be undertaken one at a time, rather than a sweeping East-West pact. The West German information official also said the first such agreement logically could deal with disarmament, which he termed "the decisive point of tension."

Adenauer reasserted his devotion to the concept of co-operation among the Western nations. He outlined in broad strokes a program embracing Allied defense, economic and social progress, imposition of purely defensive limits on the alliance and negotiation of a non-aggression treaty with the Soviet bloc.

The President's Gamble

IN THE LAST FEW DAYS PRESIDENT Eisenhower has crystallized the central issue of next Tuesday's Congressional election. He has made it a vote on his own prestige among the American people. He asks them to elect a Republican Congress in support of his policies. And thus, deliberately, he has risked a repudiation of his Government at the polls.

His strategy was not adopted without long thought and some hesitation. Mr. Eisenhower refused to enter the campaign in its earlier stages and adhered pretty closely to his original—and quite impossible—theory that the Presidency should be above partisan politics. Then, as the trend seemed to go against his party and its professionals desperately sought his help, he suddenly threw himself into the struggle. Republican candidates, greatly relieved by his help, have therefore campaigned on the proposition that a vote for them is a vote for the President. They hope to ride into office on his coat tails.

As Mr. James Reston, the celebrated political correspondent, writes in The New York Times, this strategy may turn out to be a grave mistake.

For it is by no means certain that the President's golden prestige, as the campaign cliché goes, will rub off upon his followers, that they will achieve "gilt by association."

If the Republicans lose the election—and all the public opinion polls point that way—the President's own stature will suffer seriously. Not only will he face a hostile Congress (however the Democrats may claim to be his real friends) but he will find the old guard of his own party blaming him for everything and doubtless becoming more intransigent and reactionary than ever.

The President obviously foresaw all these risks and has decided to accept them, rather than let the election go by default. His courage and his unequalled popularity may be sufficient to tip the scales against the Democrats at the last moment and to confound the prophets, as Mr. Truman confounded them in 1948.

If things turn out differently, however, history suggests a sequel. Only once since the Civil War has an administration won the presidency after losing a mid-term Congressional election. The result of the 1956 poll may be contained in the ballots to be cast next week.

Low on Higher Education

MR. SOLON LOW TOLD THE B.C. Social Credit League in Vancouver last week that the Liberal Government in Ottawa is playing "the basest kind of politics" by distributing grants to universities "only on the recommendation of some Liberal heeler in the province."

The fact is that partisan politics cannot be played in the distribution of university grants. They are given to all provinces but Quebec—which has refused them—on the basis of provincial population.

Advice From Hockey's Head Man

MR. CLARENCE CAMPBELL, president of the National Hockey League, has offered some sage advice to Canadian youngsters. It is advice applied particularly to hockey, but could be expanded to take in the whole question of over-emphasis in sport.

The NHL leader urges boys to acquire the best education available to them and not to jeopardize their careers by concentrating on hockey at the expense of their studies.

The chance of the 15-year-old in Canada making the senior professional league is one in 500, he says.

Mr. Campbell sees a good education as the most valuable thing in life and one that can be transported without charge—a permanent resource.

Whether or not his wisdom will penetrate the mind of the young teen-ager—a mind set on the glamor and crowd appeal of a sport that is probably a national mania for boys—is questionable. But the National Hockey League president has emphasized an important point.

Whatever a boy may receive from strenuous professional sport when he attains his growth, the rewards cannot extend over a long period. The playing life of a hockey star, like that of most other athletes, is short. Those who have the ability to cash in on it may very properly exploit that ability. But the youngster should never forget the long years that follow an athletic career. The time to prepare for them—to ensure a continuous earning ability as well as a satisfactory design for living—starts in elementary and high school.

That is a point which conscientious coaches stress to their proteges. The cheers of Saturday's stadium do not endure. Press clippings from the sports page yellow and fade. Yesterday's athletic hero is soon forgotten.

Opening the Door to Office

THE UNION OF B.C. MUNICIPALITIES, in convention here last week, addressed itself to the vexatious question of property qualifications for candidates seeking municipal office.

The Union sees in present regulations and under present conditions a barrier to the entry into public life of many young men who are acquiring homes and who might provide valuable public service. The chief obstacle appears to be regulations concerning the equity of a man with a mortgage.

In a number of instances such technical disabilities have forced men to resign their seats shortly after election or have discouraged prospective candidates from seeking office.

The thinking of the UBCM appears to be that young men, establishing themselves in their own homes and investing more than the minimum required to qualify as candidates, should not be barred because of technicalities. The municipal union takes the sound position that this is the type of man who could be a highly valuable asset to his community in office.

For that reason the convention has advanced to the government a resolution asking that the Municipal Act be changed to place mortgages in the same position as purchasers under agreements of sale with respect to qualification for municipal office.

The resolution is good in sentiment and has the additional advantage of avoiding too much complexity.

It says, in effect, that an impediment to laudable ambition and the desire to serve the public exists and it asks the administration to remove it. The resolution deserves favorable government action.

Still Predominantly Canadian

(From The Ottawa Citizen)

WHAT Prime Minister St. Laurent said at Montreal a few nights ago on the subject of the seaway is mainly a recapitulation and not a fresh statement of policy. The policy was designed in August and announced at the time.

There were also official explanations of it, but these have never quite succeeded in catching up with a widely believed story that Canada had meekly surrendered to American importunity by allowing the United States to build locks in the International Rapids section of the St. Lawrence. There, the critics cried, went Canada's dream of a seaway all its own.

Mr. St. Laurent has now undertaken to explain the policy himself, and in much detail. Perhaps he should have done this earlier, for he admits the government has been receiving "quite a large volume of correspondence from every corner of the country," nearly all of it deploring the course taken.

The facts are that over a period of more than 20 years the Canadian and U.S. governments worked for a navigation partnership with electric power as an integral part of the project. Congress blocked these joint efforts. At length Canada made up its mind to construct the navigation works alone. If Congress remained obdurate and if nevertheless the American administration would help clear the way toward the building of the power dams by Ontario and some American agency (which turned out to be the New York State Power Authority).

ABSOLUTELY ESSENTIAL

This co-operation was absolutely essential, and even today the New York power license could be revoked. The Eisenhower administration, like that of Mr. Truman, acted in a helpful manner throughout, and no doubt was as much annoyed by the behavior of Congress as were the Canadian people.

The administration, it is true, finally endorsed the Wiley Bill whereby Congress decided to take a hand in the St. Lawrence after all. There is no partnership provided in this legislation for each country is free to go ahead with whatever works it chooses, within its own territorial waters, and the U.S. agency is

NOT TOLERATED

The press has recently reported the Federal Member for Esquimalt-Saanich saying at a political meeting in Victoria: "We will not tolerate anyone passing votes of non-confidence."

What sort of talk is this from an elected Member of Parliament? Who refuses to "tolerate" the democratic expression of opinion of the rank and file of the Conservative Party? Such autocratic statements reveal the contempt of some of our leaders for accepted Canadian procedure, and show their reason for the formation of private associations which will not "tolerate" any departure from a military form of rule.

It is the group who support the B.C. Conservative Association and the Provincial Leader, Deane Finlayson, who are leading the fight against dictatorship in the Conservative Party.

STRAIGHT RECORD

From time to time your newspaper and the Vancouver Sun have consistently endeavored to bring to public attention the false and fantastic claims of so-called debt reduction by the Social Credit government. On October 27th, the Vancouver Province joined the Times in this effort.

It is to be hoped that the people of this province will appreciate the service the Times is rendering along with the other leading papers of this province in their efforts to force this government to "keep the record straight" and give the people an honest account of their public affairs.

Premier Bennett and his Social Credit government are following the same pattern as their political friends in Alberta regarding debt reduction; however, it seems to be a little more scarce in B.C.

It is nothing new for the Premier and his political associates to quote the Bible frequently to justify their every action. I suggest they search the scriptures further and find out what the Bible has to say regarding those who distort the truth to gain their political ends.

The Times, and other newspapers, are to be commended for rendering this service to the general public. Any newspaper that would support a party because it happens to be the government of the day is not worth its salt.

TRUTH

TIME TO PROTEST

Some time ago I paid the city of Victoria $9 by cheque marked "paid with protest." The $3 poll tax plus $2 each for self and charming English wife does not give us any claim to vote, unless we register. I did so and wish now to register a public protest against the entire Belgian Congo law.

"Nobody protests in Victoria." A coward he who would not be in the right with two or three.

Surely the Victoria Times will not cease to urge the entire abolition of a law long since dead in Old England. Such laws are no doubt bulwarks of the faith of Social Discredit, but I doubt if that fallacy will give the party eternal life. Not in these days when the press can not and will not be lulled by petty commissars in city hall or in the seats of those who profess to lead us onward to some mystic Social Discredit heaven.

The Times can do a great public service by letting our ostrich aldermen know what the public thinks of their shameful record on the poll tax and road tax questions. I am only one person. I may be alone in my love of freedom—maybe the British concept has died? Once more to call descendants of Bannockburn and Peterloo!

The road tax intrigues me because I don't even own a toy cycle. Can I now claim one of the so many parking meters (last count was 1,100) for my very own? That I doubt. There's not to reason why—there's but to pay. Why?

Only those who attend the secret meetings of those elected by the people do refuse to say. Make your protest Dec. 9 and let Victoria be proud you protested.

LOOSE ENDS

An Artist in Our Midst

THE people who visited the art gallery last week to view the varied works of Mr. Jan Zach, our eminent Victoria artist, probably could be divided into three groups—those who didn't like his painting and sculpture, those who liked them without understanding, and the small minority who both understood and approved. No one has any right, of course, to judge any form of art unless he understands it, but this has never prevented the public from making up its mind about anything, including the art of politics. People who have never spent a moment studying composition, color, form or perspective have no hesitation in denouncing the painter who has; just as many citizens in these parts passionately approve or disapprove various economic theories without bothering to learn the bare rudiments of economics. Or again, the work of writers is constantly condemned or commended by readers who stand just this side of illiteracy and perhaps would be happier and more agreeable if they stood on the other side.

MR. ZACH will be little concerned, therefore, with the opinions of the public. As an artist he has a great advantage over the politician—he doesn't have to adjust his principles to suit the voters or please anybody but himself. And, as an artist, he paints and sculpts in his own fashion because he has to, which is the only solid reason for doing anything. Being illiterate in the arts, I offer no opinion on this remarkable man's talents, beyond saying that they fascinated and electrified me, who am not usually subject to fascination or electrification.

W HETHER they are good or not I cannot say. Even without understanding them, however, a layman is entitled to conclude that Mr. Zach, an immigrant to this country, has found in it dimensions, qualities and magic that usually escape the native's eye.

He is telling us something about Canada that most Canadians did not know. That is the service which immigrants have constantly rendered to America from the beginning, for all our basic ideas, and our civilization itself, come out of older countries, mostly in Europe.

Anyway, it is fascinating I think to observe that the natives of this place move daily about their city and countryside, taking all its beauty and ugliness for granted and hardly noting them in the furious passage of modern life; while a newcomer, suddenly confronting these things, is instantly amazed, excited and inspired.

TO be sure, he does not see in the city or the landscape what most of us see. If he could see no more than that he would not be an artist.

An artist of the brush the pen or the musical instrument would be no artist; if he did not peer beyond the ordinary limits of human sight. His whole purpose, and the justification of his work, is to discover what lies past the border of what we call reality and to capture, as best he can, the true reality outside our grasp—in line, to give a home and habitation to those airy nothings which, in fact, are everything.

THUS when Mr. Zach looks upon our seashore and sees a vivid combination of mass and color where we see only water, rocks and driftwood, the ignorant man will conclude that the artist has failed because he has not painted things as they are—as if anyone alive ever knew what things are, as if the business of the painter were to act as a photographer, or the business of the poet to report the meetings of the City Council verbatim.

The universe exists separately for every man, according to his individual vision, and there are as many universes as there are men upon the earth. Mr. Zach paints his as he sees it (though his reach, like that of all artists, probably exceeds his grasp, or what's a heaven for?) and we can take it or leave it as we choose.

AT least his local universe is much more lively, jolly and altogether more liveable than the universe of most natives—a universe of wondrous forms, vivid hues, shattering masses, dazzling sunlight and sharp, clean lines.

I envy him that inward eye, that is the bliss of solitude; and it cheers my civic pride to know that such an artist, after roving the world in search of beauty, has decided to settle right here amid a beauty which most of us ignore or cannot see. Perhaps he will succeed in opening our dull eyes and sharing with us a fragment of his dream, if we give him the chance.

OVER THE SHARK FINS AND PEKING DUCK

The World's Great Neutral Draws the Line

A state banquet was held in Peiping the other day. The Chinese hosts no doubt outdid themselves in providing a lavish repast. An outsider, looking on, might have been entranced by the culinary sights—the shark fins and Peking duck—even to the point of ignoring the softly spoken speeches of welcome and reply.

But this banquet, and the substance of the words spoken there by the host, Prime Minister Chou En-Lai, and the guest, India's Prime Minister Nehru, were of world importance.

If for no other reason, there is importance in the numbers involved. As these two leaders met, they represented populations of about 600 millions and 400 millions respectively. As dominant voices in the affairs of nearly half the world's inhabitants, their words must be significant.

This is particularly so when one of those leaders is an important advocate of an ideology which seeks to claim the whole globe, and the other is the head of a great neutral mass whose final choice for communism or democracy could shake the world.

For the proper background for Mr. Nehru's remarks at Peiping we must go back a few days to his activities while passing through Hanoi, in the northern, and now communist, part of what was Indo-China.

Subtle Diplomacy

It was during a quiet visit there, with the Viet Minh leader Ho Chi Minh, that Mr. Nehru executed a stroke of diplomacy of a subtle but telling quality. Out of their conversations evolved a document in which Mr. Ho recognized the "ancient contacts" of India in Indo-China, as well as the vital interest of the New Delhi government in matters affecting the independence and integrity of Laos and Cambodia.

Whether or not these states can be recognized as a sphere of influence for India, their continued independence is certainly a matter for Indian concern. Communist China, having absorbed Tibet, already dominates the northeastern border of India. To have Chinese imperialism continue southward into the Malayan peninsula would be to throw a Red bulwark between India and the Pacific—a suggestion of pincers development not to be viewed with composure.

In any case, Mr. Nehru obtained his written recognition. The piece of paper contains no mention of force, but it sets, as one writer has described it, "a silken veil" across the road of communist expansion that could prove far more effective than any mined road-block.

In effect it means that southward aggression by the communists will constitute a breach of agreement with India, an Asian power—a far different matter from the quarrel of an Asiatic country with a western nation. Such an aggression could rouse no sympathy for China's "Asia for the Asians" slogan. It would be an outright flouting of Asian by Asian, and it could well rally all of free Asia against an unmasked Chinese imperialism.

It was with this document in his pocket, then, that Mr. Nehru journeyed on to Peiping. The blend of suave friendliness and suave strength which he there demonstrated deserves the full attention of the West.

PRIME MINISTER NEHRU

Replying to Mr. Chou's welcome, he recalled the intercourse between the two countries as far back as 2,000 years ago—a "proud heritage," he termed it.

"Then came the period of isolation from each other because of external forces," Mr. Nehru continued. "On achieving freedom we looked at each other again and thought of reviving those past contacts in the context of the new world of today."

Those "past contacts" as he had described them, were in the form of "travelers and pilgrims . . . messengers of goodwill, trading in culture and the commerce of ideas."

That could mean anything "in the context of the new world of today," but it was noteworthy that the Indian leader grouped both his country and China as having been the victims of "external forces" from which both had at last achieved freedom.

Such a grouping certainly gives the two nations a community of interest—almost, in preserving Asia for the Asians. But this leaves India still a long way from sympathizing with the ideology that has been fastened upon the Chinese. "Asia for the Asians" does not of itself connote communism, but nationalism and racialism.

The thought was made clear in Mr. Nehru's reference to past divergences, and the fact that "even in the present we may not agree about some things." But he added, "This does not hide the basic fact that we have shared many experiences, have much in common and that essentially there is goodwill and friendship between our two great countries."

Endanger Peace

From these pleasanties, the disciple of the late Mahatma Gandhi, the prophet of passivity and peace, directed his words a little closer home. With no doubt a thought to India's experience as neutral agent in administering provisions of the Korean truce, Mr. Nehru declared: "Any attempt to impose the will of one nation on another, or the ways of life of one people on another, must necessarily produce conflict and endanger peace. That is why we have always been opposed to the domination of one country by another."

Thus emerged the Indian's true philosophy, which he outlined briefly: "The only right and practical way for nations, as for groups, is to recognize co-existence between them even though they differ in their outlook or their way of life. Any other way, or any interference with this, means a conflict."

Could one hear faintly the rustle of a Viet Minh document in the speaker's pocket?

Mr. Nehru was a guest, Mr. Chou was the host. Yet this was plain talk, clear and meaningful above the clutter of the banquet table. One could envision the Chinese listeners realizing that to Mr. Nehru, neutrality means exactly what the word implies.

But whether neutrality without adequate protection can remain just that is another question—a question that could have been in the minds of Mr. Chou and his comrades as they measured the sincerity, and the strength, of their guest.

Conversation Piece

"THE one thing that troubles me, daddy," (the little girl said) "is—who made God?"

Silence.

And then, hesitantly, the father said: "I guess none of us knows that."

And cheerfully, the little girl agreed: "Yep, nobody but the angels. Maybe God made Himself."

"I guess," (the father said) "that's the reason we all have to die—to find out. We grow old and our time comes to die. If we've been good, we go to Heaven, and then we find out."

"Yes," said the little girl, "then we all become angels."

The father chuckled. "Now look," he said. "I don't think I could be an angel. I'm too fat. I'd look pretty silly with wings."

"No," the little girl cried. "You could be an angel, too. They have boy angels. They have long hair, but I don't think they fly quite as much as the girls."

"But what would I do in Heaven?" the father asked. "Do you suppose they'd have a job for me, up there? Would they have a newspaper, perhaps—The Heavenly Times?"

The little girl giggled. "No, silly," she cried. "It's not like down here."

"How do you know?" the father persisted. "There must be announcements, meetings, and all that sort of thing. We used to have a story in the Navy about Ordinary Seaman Joe Buggins. He got killed, went to Heaven, and was assigned to harp duty. But he broke his Mark I harp."

"You don't understand!" the little girl protested. "It's different up there. Nobody fights each other. When somebody important in Heaven wants to talk to us, on Earth, they come down, and there's a big bang, like an earthquake, and suddenly there's a loud song. That's the way they talk to us."

They were nearing the school now, and for a moment the father pondered his child's vision of eternity. Then he winked at her and said:

"You mean, I wouldn't have to work?"

"No," the little girl affirmed, "there's no news up there."

"Then, my child," the father sighed, "I agree with you. The place you describe must certainly be Heaven."

LONDON LETTER

By WALLACE REYBURN

Words Like Bricks

LONDON—Names make news . . . HOW TO MAKE AN AFTERNOON SPEECH, as Lord Jowitt does it: "An after-dinner speech is like a love letter. Ideally you should begin by not knowing what you are going to say and end by not knowing what you've said." As actor Robert Morley does it: "I never make any preparation whatsoever. I never find out about the function I'm attending. If I need information about it, I make it up as I go along. There is never a wrong time for jokes, so I tell them whenever I feel like it. I never bother about working up to a climax. I plunge in at the climax and sink rapidly."

Reyburn

TWO TOP BRITISH POLITICIANS,

as seen by the press:

Bevan: "The flamboyant word-juggler whose words drop like bricks." (Daily Mirror).

Eden: "In England, an acute foreign-born observer of our scene has recently remarked, 'the main quality a politician must possess is a certain upright and dependable mediocrity.' It seems an exact description of Eden." (News Chronicle).

VIVIEN LEIGH paid out almost $500 to the Royal Academy of Dramatic Art for a two-year acting course for daughter Suzanne Holman, who started her studies by saying that she "desperately wanted to be a good actress like Mummy." But apparently it takes more than money. At the end-of-term play the only part RADA could find for Suzanne was one in which she had one line and a sneeze . . . the desperation in her desire to follow in Mummy's footsteps seems to have left her. She's now working in a beauty salon.

BARBARA KELLY has written to the papers to deny the rumor that she's packing up her tour in the play, "Angels in Love," because she misses her children and "her husband is annoyed about her being away from home." She says that husband Bernie Braden has told her: "Darling, only one thing makes this separation bearable. I need the money." On the radio and elsewhere, Braden keeps harping on this matter of "my wife earning more money than I do." Either it's true and he's obsessed with it or he's inviting us to believe it's true, to give her a build-up.

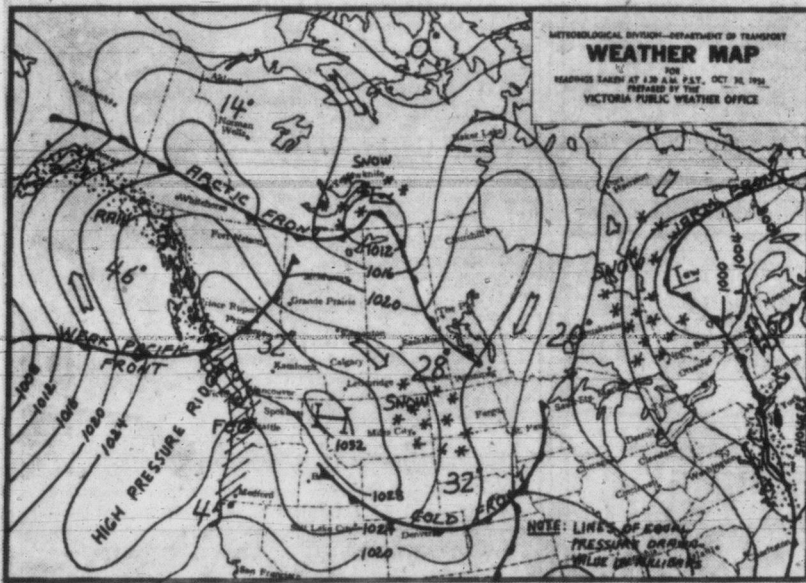

Churchill, apparently, is fond of drinking coffee also. He's been buying the same brand from a coffee-blender in London's Wardour Street for over 20 years. Four pounds are delivered to him each week (at just short of a dollar a pound).

ROBERT DONAT'S return to the screen in "Lease of Life" has had a mixed reception. He plays a Mr. Chipsham part of a country vicar given only one more year to live. Though the film's a bit heavy going, the critics are kindly because Donat is such a nice guy and one has a warm nostalgic feeling about his early films.

WHAT IS THE SECRET of Audrey Hepburn's success? asks Joy Matthews in the Sunday Pictorial. Answer: "She's a girl with the guts not to sit down and accept the fact that she is no raving beauty. For it takes guts to make the best of our worst points and bring out the best ones. Audrey is tapping all us women on the shoulder with the reminder that there's no need to wake up at forty and complain that 'I wasn't successful because I was just a thin girl with straight hair, ugly hands, indifferent legs and no bust to speak of.'"

RADIO COMIC Ted Ray: "Just give me my golf clubs, a lovely sunny day and a beautiful partner, and you can take back my golf clubs and the lovely sunny day."

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

Week-End Weather Picture Across Canada

SYNOPSIS—The pattern of the weather remains generally unchanged. A persisting and large high pressure area over B.C. is opposing the advance of an equally large depression some distance out to sea. Moist and stagnant air over the southern coast has given rise to a sufficient depth of fog banks that some areas will show only a slight lifting of the fog this afternoon with little clearing. In the same fashion several valleys of the interior will remain cloudy although higher elevations will be mostly clear. No appreciable change is seen for tonight and Sunday throughout the province.

Social Credit Not Important Factor in N.Z. Election Nov. 13

WELLINGTON (Reuters)—New Zealanders vote Nov. 13 on whether they shall continue to be ruled by the National Party which has been in office for the last five years, or whether the Labor Party is to take back the task of government which it handed over in 1949 after 14 years in office.

For the first time in about 20 years, a third party, the Social-Credit Political League, is contesting the election in strength. But present indications are that the Social Crediters will not offer a serious challenge to the established parties.

Social Credit and other parties flourished in New Zealand some years ago, particularly during the depression of the 1930s. But political experts here have expressed surprise that the party should choose a year of unrivalled prosperity to emerge in strength.

Most competent observers expect the government to win, but by a reduced majority. The National Party now has 50 seats in the 80-seat parliament, with comfortable majorities.

Both Sidney Holland, prime minister and leader of the National Party, and Walter Nash, leader of the Labor Party, are expected to be returned with comfortable majorities.

Every dollar you invest NOW in a

Canadian Government Annuity means a Guaranteed

Income during your retirement years

An Annuity can be purchased to come due at 50, 60, 65 or other ages. Here's a typical example:

NOW—Supposing you are a man of 28 and wish to secure an Annuity of $100 per month commencing at 65. Your monthly premium would be only $16.44.

AT AGE 65—The Government will begin paying you $100 per month. These payments will continue as long as you live! Furthermore, in the event that you die within 10 years after the age of 65, the monthly payments will continue to your heirs for the balance of that 10 years. In other words, you will have paid $7,299.36 to receive a minimum return of $12,000, which will be even greater if you live past 75!

IF YOU DIE BEFORE AGE 65—The Government will pay your heirs the total sum paid up to the date of your death, plus compound interest.

The example given above is one of many Government Annuity plans available to meet your particular requirements. Any resident of Canada between ages 18 and 65 is eligible to buy a Government Annuity. SCOTT'S BOOK TALK

Canadian Book Week Inspires Suggestions

By JAMES SCOTT

Today is the beginning of Book Week in Canada. This is the time, which rarely comes on precisely the same dates, when such interested people as the Canadian Authors' Association, the Canadian Library Association, book publishers and the like of that get together and say: Let's see what we can do in the way of making our fellow countrymen more conscious of books, reading and the profit and enjoyment to be derived therefrom.

This is worthy. It need hardly be said that if it were not worthy there is precious little chance that it would ever be organized in this country. If there is one thing which Canadians are it is worthy. About this I think there will be little disagreement. I am sure that all reading this will agree that Book Week is a good thing. But may I make this qualification?

Good Things if Acted Upon

Book Week in Canada will undoubtedly be a good thing if you and I do something to make it so. One of the great delusions under which most of us labor, it seems to me, is that we believe that because a thing by nature is worthy it will automatically turn out to be same in performance.

This is a very naive concept and, alackaday my countrymen, we are a very naive people. This is why we are often long on dreams of great, good things and short in the accomplishing of them.

Now let's get down to this business of books in Canada. I wonder, for example, how many of you now that you know about Book Week and approve in principle, are actually planning to do something about it.

Aha! caught you, didn't I? If I'm not careful I'll be getting some more sharp letters because I probed a bit too deeply. No need to worry, though. It is a very easy thing to do something about Book Week. In fact, there is nothing to it at all. You don't have to go to any of the lectures, banquets, book fairs or any other of those things which the diligent promoters have planned. (It would be nice if you would, but you don't have to.) All you really have to do is try a Canadian book.

About five years ago, I ran a column which was punctuated by this line: HAVE YOU READ A CANADIAN BOOK LATELY?

A very large number of people, in and out of the trade, were very complimentary about this and took the trouble to say it was a good idea. But, on inquiring, I discovered that not so very many of them had taken the trouble to take the hint and try a Canadian book.

This is the kind of thing which turns book reviewers into disillusioned old men before their time.

All Kinds to Choose From

Just the same, I am an optimist at heart. I'm all ready to try again. And I don't think there could be a better reason for it. There are all kinds of interesting books which you might try.

For example, have you got around to Ralph Allen's "The Chartered Libertine" or Igor Gouzenko's "The Fall of a Titan"? Those are good novels—homegrown too. Or how about Will R. Bird's "The Two Jacks"? The chances are that you have read and enjoyed at least one wartime escape story. Here is one of the best and it too is 100% Canuck. Why not give the local boy a break? You'll like it.

Then there's our own Mazo de la Roche. There is practically total agreement that her latest, "Variable Winds at Jalta," is in her very best vein. Read it and see why the rest of the world has made her a best selling author.

But you are more discriminating. You want real artistic prose, not best-selling stuff. All right. We have that too. If you don't believe me take a look at Ethel Wilson's "The Swamp Angel" and you'll get one of the stylistic treats of a lifetime. It is just barely possible that you have already read all these. If so, you get a medal, but don't stop there.

Suppose you like amusing but sharp satire (I'll bet some of you read Angela Thirkell), well then Canada has its own Robertson Davies and "Leaves of Malice" is your cup of tea. Or you are interested in serious things like international affairs. General Kurt Meyer put Canada right into the middle of the international tempest and a Canadian, name of Bruce MacDonald, has written a very solid book about it—"The Trial of Kurt Meyer."

Now this is only the beginning. I could range from Mary Grannan's new kids' book, "Mary Muggins," through Jan Hilliard's amusing novel about Nova Scotia, "A View of the Town," to Arthur Lower's stringent book about our way of life, "This Most Famous Stream."

How about you taking it from there? Have YOU read a Canadian book lately?

BY VICTORIA AUTHOR

Connibear's 'Devil Dog' Based On Experiences in Rugged North

Reviewed By T. K. WILLIS

President, Victoria and Islands Branch, Canadian Authors Association

Victoria author Frank Connibear, in giving "Devil Dog" to the reading public has obviously drawn deeply from a thorough knowledge of the north country and its inhabitants, man and animal.

There have been other books written on the subject, in which other dogs have lived, fought, suffered and found final friendship, but none with such understanding of the dog, none with saner governing of villainy.

It is by our softer standards, brutal, but when the action is placed against the backdrop of necessity and geographical toughness, brutality fades into its correct proportion and becomes a part of life.

STRUGGLE FOR LEADERSHIP

It is an exciting life. For Punch, the dog hero of the novel, it is a struggle to rise through work to leadership. It is a struggle to please and become a being respected and able. In Punch's life this can only be accomplished through lavish expenditure of strength

A MAN'S BOOK

"Devil Dog" is definitely a man's book, which fact will, no doubt, recommend it to many women readers. In it one visits northern trading posts and trappers' cabins, the trap lines, the white and Indian inhabitants, and lives the seasons through from "The Time of the First Snow" to "The Time of the Little Leaf."

The interesting ways of the wild animal are told with an expertness betraying long years of close association. The reader travels the north country of the Barren Lands and Mackenzie Basin and discovers a cleverness among the hunted which would never otherwise be suspected.

Drawn to greater length than any other passage of the book is the harrowing torture of the trap, but here again the writer respects the reader's reactions. The dog Punch is the victim of a more powerful animal.

Ronald Jeans' farce was chosen one of the six best of the 1953-54 season in London. It concerns a young English couple with a small income who attempt to run a boarding house to supplement that income. Among their tenants are a middle-aged dance instructor, an eccentric old lady, a fanatic Czech and a beautiful young divorcee.

The boarding house is not a financial success but the eventual solution brings about a hilarious ending.

Featured in the sparkling entertainment is Len Lark, Cynthia Ross, Sonia Beck, Nora Kelly, Connie Thompson, Dorothy House, Vera Stewart, Jörn Winther and Roy Blodgett. Director is Bert Williams and stage manager Leonard McCann. Curtain will go up at 8:15.

Don Cossacks Here Nov. 6

Membership of the Platoff Don Cossack Chorus and Dancers, which is to appear here under auspices of Victoria Kiwanis Club, November 9, has always comprised the best of vocal and dancing talent obtainable among the White Russian émigrés.

The chorus sang its first concert 22 years ago in the cathedral at Prague. Members were exiles from the Don River country and were gathered together by Nicholas Kostoukoff who left Russia in the revolution, and who is their leader at the present time, as well as their administrator.

Singing many of the songs for which they have become famous, the Cossacks will appear here in the new auditorium of Central Junior High School.

GRUBER CONDUCTS

Wide Range of Choice For Symphony Followers

The fall and winter symphony seasons are all under way now all over the country, and we have once again several regular weekly orchestra broadcasts we can hear.

On Sunday noon, the New York Philharmonic Orchestra, a true virtuoso orchestra in the best American tradition of mechanical infallibility, lush, not to say thick, in sound, dead-on intonation. It is strongly influenced by their conductor, Mitropoulos, in showing often impatience with details in the classical literature, but rendering invaluable service to contemporary composers by playing a great deal of their often controversial music with conviction, searching understanding, and with an amount of bravado that seems to increase proportionately with the technical complexity of the task at hand.

If Mr. Mitropoulos would only give us once a Mozart or Haydn or Beethoven symphony without the obvious impatience he brings to this music, and played in a style which is not best served by so heavy a sound, the last vestige of reservation we have about the New York Philharmonic would be removed.

Clashes With Hockey

About the Boston Symphony Orchestra we spoke last week. They can be heard on Saturdays from 5.30 to 6.30 p.m. over the NBC network (I feel strongly that NBC should have advanced the time of this broadcast by half an hour; as it is, I am forced to miss the first half hour of the NHL hockey broadcasts from Toronto). If the standard set in the first Boston broadcast is any indication, these should be the finest orchestral concerts on the air this season. From time to time, other orchestras will take Boston's place, when they are on tour.

On Tuesday evenings, the Concerts Symphoniques will alternate with the Toronto Symphony. From the latter, we have come to expect music-making of world-standard. The former has suffered grievously from lack of continuity in permanent conductors. However, Montreal has secured the incomparable services of Pierre Monteux for several concerts this season; he, surely, of all conductors, should be able to achieve a standard in keeping with so great a city as Montreal.

And, on alternate Sunday afternoons, and closer to home, we may hear the Vancouver Symphony Orchestra alternating with Winnipeg's Orchestra. Irwin Hoffman has mapped out a bold, adventurous, very demanding, but beautifully balanced season for Vancouver.

His is without question an altogether outstanding conductor, talented, given the free hand, which I am granted here, but which he deserves. The Vancouver Symphony Orchestra should embark upon a new era of growth and maturity.

Great emphasis (too great?) is placed there on guest artists—this item in their budget is, in my genuinely humble opinion, excessive, certain single artists costing as much or more than our total guest-artist bill here for the entire season.

While still much development is open to the orchestra themselves, it would appear to the casual outsider that a good portion of the guest-artist money might better serve, meanwhile, if it were spent on the orchestra. But that has nothing to do with Hoffman, to whose broadcasts every second Sunday afternoon you should by all means listen.

Mr. Kaufmann of the Winnipeg Symphony is now in his eighth season there, and this sort of continuity in direction is bound to have a beneficial effect upon such a younger orchestra—not a virtuoso orchestra (thank goodness), but one that has often a good string sound and one that is the object of my greenest envy for their beautiful resident oboe player (I mean one who plays the oboe beautifully—I am not familiar with his countenance). Nor should the Sunday evening broadcasts of the Montreal Little Symphonies be missed (a CBC studio orchestra specializing in 18th century music, sometimes really lovingly performed).

On Thursday evenings, the Vancouver concert orchestra, with John Avison, must be highly complimented for the catholicism of the programs; and, as important as any mentioned above, the CBC Symphony Orchestra of Toronto, Monday evenings, 8.30-9.30 p.m.

ART in REVIEW

By COLIN GRAHAM

It was an agreeable experience the other day, in the home of the Seattle Art Museum's director, to find a Shadbolt painting occupying a place of honor. It was doubly so to find another Shadbolt occupying a similar place in the home of the museum's assistant director.

The two circumstances testify to Shadbolt's growing prestige outside Canada—as well as within, and since we may claim him as a Victorian (he lived here from the age of five till the year he left Victoria College) it is to be hoped that we shall reverse the kind of treatment we bestowed on Emily Carr and recognize him now rather than a few decades hence.

A PERSONAL STYLE
One of the admirable things about Shadbolt's work in recent years, as visitors to his current Art Centre show may judge for themselves, is the way in which, having absorbed the contemporary techniques of abstraction, he has often managed to go beyond them to reach a distinctly personal style. Relatively few are the post-war artists in any country who have been able to achieve this—for the majority seem to end up as little Picasos, little Matissees, and so on, thus creating a modern academicism.

Shadbolt is preoccupied mainly with the bird and insect life of our forests, fields and shorelines. These he finds somehow symbolical of the larger world, and his paintings do seem to contain references and meanings that extend far beyond their manifest content.

SUPERBLY SENSITIVE
He is superbly sensitive to the mood and feel of our rather sombre coastal environment.

Old Totems Teach New Totems a Lesson

The "old-timers" of previous Victoria High School teams got back in the strip of their alma mater Friday night and made the most of the chance. Grads won the annual exhibition basketball game with Vic High Totems, 75-59, as they showed too much class for the present Totem squad. A part of the strained excitement is shown here as Grad Eddy Pederson, arm upraised, bats the ball away from Totem Den Perry (45). Grimacing fellow at left is Grads' Gordy Jones, who topped all scorers with 27 points. Looking on are Totem Bob Tomlinson (22) and Grad George Denison, right. (Times photo.)

Big Freeze Forecast In WIFU Semi Opener

IT'S MY VIEW

By BILL WALKER, Sports Editor

A photographer took a punch at a hockey player Wednesday night. That's news.

A hockey player traded near misses with two hockey fans about the same time. That's news too, but nothing to what has gone before in the life span of the Cougars.

The photographer was our own Irv Strickland who for three-fifths of a second was dynamite fury. Something exploded within the usually mild mannered master of the intricacies of the magic lantern. But he never deterred in his duty. He snapped a picture first, then struck. (But he declined to go into the Saskatoon dressing room following the game.)

This rucus blew up because Vic Lynn of the Quakers was a hardly a gentleman in his choice of words. That's what the fans thought, too, especially two of them, Dr. Art Webster and Russel Ker.

What actually happened, a double check shows, is that Lynn told Ker to shut his (censored) mouth. Ker replied, it is said, "I won't shut my kind of mouth." The good Doctor Webster, who incidentally has a son-in-law at heart on the Cougars, one Doug Anderson, backed up Ker and the attempt at mouth shutting began.

Oh, sure, the Saskatoon players rushed across the ice, George Senick poking his stick in Strickland's ribs. But that was minor—just a request to desist from taking pictures. It's a wonder the request wasn't more pointed. And it might have been had Senick seen Strickland's pulverizing left bounce off Lynn's shoulder pads, much like a summer fly flitting on the edge of the sugar bowl.

Murph and Buzz Were Willing Millers

That was this hubbub, but what about some of the others as they came to mind?

There was Murph Chamberlain. Remember him? Murph went hand over bodies into the crowd behind the Vancouver bench one night and precipitated a near riot that saw policemen occupying the best mezzanine seats in that section the rest of the evening.

Muzz Patrick took the same route on another memorable riotous evening. Muzz didn't mind so much someone continually tapping him on the hat brim, nor the words—not pretty ones either—that played in a never-ending stream about his ears. But what he objected too was lighted cigarette butts stinging him in the neck.

Fistic records prove that Muzz never lost a boxing bout in the city. He didn't lose this one either and his assailants never asked for a return match or thereafter forgot to butt their cigarettes.

There have been other skirmishes too. Ker has been in more than a couple, more because of his proximity to the penalty bench than for any other reason. Another prominent city businessman, Ed Cadillac, stopped a right-hand punch from Calgary trainer Stu Hendry this year, and stopped it well. Doug Bentley took after goal judge Doug Bray one playoff night and was abetted by all the Quakers. Bray escaped with his goal finger intact.

This Was the Real Jim Dandy

But none in the current Cougar book will compare, from this corner at least, with what occurred in Westminster three years ago.

That was the season following the year of the championship Cougars. The Royals and Cougars were locked in an overtime battle. Les Hickey of the Cougars broke down the right wing and fired a blistering shot that appeared to hit the twine inside the post and pop out. Back came the Royals on the return rush and Amy Dufault plunked the puck behind Jerry Cotoir. The game was over but the festivities were only about to commence. The Cougars were furious. They swung as a unit, and picking up bench strength as they skated in, stormed the goal judge who had disallowed the apparent tally. The goal judge stormed to the nearest exit. A hundred fans or more vaulted on the ice. Pandemonium reigned.

The Cougars' way to the dressing room was blocked by a milling crowd of angry fans. But the Cougars were the more angry. Roger Leger and Ed Dorohoy took the lead parts while Cotoir continued to swipe at fans behind the protective wire mesh behind the goal. Leger and Dorohoy stood on the railing, sticks raised high, daring the threat to their well-being to materialize. There was a Cougar on the floor. He was, losing while he was falling from a trip, but when the fan responsible ended back down, face up, and saw Walt Atanas' fist poised for action, he recoiled.

And there wasn't a policeman in sight.

Max Bentley With Quakers

SASKATOON (CP)—Max Bentley, the veteran major league centre ice man, will play for Saskatchewan Quakers of the Western Hockey League in their game here next Thursday against Vancouver Canucks.

Bentley announced Friday he has received notification from Toronto Maple Leafs that he has been waived out of the National Hockey League and Leafs have lifted their suspension.

Totems No Match For Grads

WINNIPEG (CP)—The sold-right-out sign will not be put up at Winnipeg Stadium tonight when Saskatchewan Roughriders and Winnipeg Blue Bombers tangle in the Western Inter-Provincial Football Union semifinal opener in a contest that is forecast to be played in freezing temperatures.

Stadium officials said most of the 13,000 season ticket holders had purchased tickets but there was no rush for bleacher seats for the first game of the two-game total-points series, slated to start at 8:30 p.m. CST. Second game is Monday night at Regina, also at 8:30 p.m.

The weatherman predicted cold sharp winds for the game with a temperature of 25 and a possibility of snow.

BOUNCED ROUGHIES

Bombers' last year, under George Trafton bounced Roughriders 43-5 at Winnipeg in the opener of a similar two-game series. Frankie Filchok's crew took the second game 18-17 at home, but lost on the round, 60-23.

Roughriders, who finished the league schedule in a first-place tie with Edmonton Eskimos but ended in second because of the Eskimos' better points average, arrived here by train this morning.

Coach Al Sherman, who guided the Bombers into third place in the five-team WIFU over the regular schedule, said the lack of injuries to key men had helped the Roughriders this year.

The former New York Giant backfield coach also had praise for the Regina backfield, and especially quarterback Frank Trippucka.

SAYS GOOD CHANCE

Asked for a prediction, Sherman replied: "We got a good chance of taking this one."

Sherman also told newspapermen that import halfback and end Ray Pelfrey was definitely through with the club.

Jones was uncheckable as he picked up 27 points and lanky Pederson hooped 19 points for Grads from his bucket position. George Denison added 12 points although he fouled out in the second quarter.

WETHERALL SUSPENDED TO DEC. 15

Herb Wetherall of Combines soccer team of the Victoria and District Football League second division has been suspended until Dec. 15.

A league committee previously set up to deal with possible suspensions within the organization this week found Wetherall guilty of a violent and dangerous charge and set the suspension.

Wetherall was indefinitely suspended for his part in a game on Oct. 3, when he kicked Tillcum's forward Bill Gosling in the leg. Gosling suffered a broken leg. The game, which featured rough play throughout, was called at that point with Tillcum's leading, 4-1.

In Vancouver, Doug Adam scored his 200th goal of his WHL career as Johnny Bower and the Canucks helped themselves to a 6-0 shutout. It was the third straight loss for Quakers, who dropped games to Vancouver and New Westminster on their current west coast jaunt.

The lacing the Cowboys gave Edmonton added up to 13 points for Calgary, one more than New Westminster but the Royals regained their one-point margin an hour later when Victoria

Cougars Plain Forgot To Go the Other Way

Reay Scores Club Members In Third Loss to Royals

New Westminster 5, Victoria 3

By BILL WALKER

If coach Billy Reay of the Cougars were to be asked for a thesis on why Victoria Cougars Friday night lost to New Westminster Royals in Western League hockey, five goals to three, he might answer thus:

First, let's not kid ourselves. Despite the fact that to some we may have looked good losing, you don't win by saying you should have won, no matter how good you do look losing. That's basic.

So it really matters not how many shots your team gets if the other team gets the ones that count. This is exactly what happened to us tonight. We had the most shots, 44-31, to be precise, but the Royals had the better ones. Sure, Lucien Dechene, The Royals' goalkeeper, was good, especially in the first period when we went at a shot-a-minute clip and ended up with one tally, that by Andy Heberton. But in return the Royals got two goals on only six shots. The percentage is all haywire.

We were going one way all right; and maybe better than all right. But we were slightly worse than all right going the other.

For example, when Fred Sakamoose got his goal for Westminster at 3:44, who was checking him when he picked the loose puck out of a scramble and fired it past Marcel Pelletier. Further, who was checking Blinky Boyce when he did the same thing at 17:26?

Well, Who Was Checking Who?

And about that Boyce. He was running free all night. He missed the open goal twice—how I don't know. And then he got his second at 16:20 of the second period. And who was checking him when he waltzed in and faked Pelletier out of his bootstraps? I ask you? Ollie Dorohoy's goal was similar. He and Max McNab went waltzing in, heads up, and all Dorohoy had to do was hit the net, which he did.

It's a wonder to me too, how the Royals didn't get more. Guyle Fielder was through twice; only Pelletier saved us then. Motto MacLean had the whole goal to shoot at from two feet and missed!

Then in the third period off we went again on our one-way junket. We couldn't beat Dechene, who was good, though perhaps a little lucky at times.

They Could Have Been Color Blind

Don't get me wrong, though. It's not that we didn't have our scoring chances. We did. But we got so many that some of the guys got to thinking more about how many points they might get than how many they might give up in doing so. You saw what happened.

No, I don't blame the whole team. How can I? Nor do I pass the buck to referee George Cullen. Some of his calls were a little peculiar, to say the least, but that didn't beat us. Maybe the fact that we scored eight goals against Saskatoon last Wednesday had something to do with it. The blood from that one could have been too fresh in our memory. We had the try, but they had the trumps; and they used those trumps wisely for the simple reason we played our cards badly, even though the game was exciting. Wasn't it?

But if you really want to know what I think, and you can quote me on this for the benefit of the 3,000 fans who saw the contest, and anyone else interested. (And this is what Reay really did say of the Cougars' third straight loss to New Westminster.)

"You would have thought that two or three players wearing red sweaters were playing for the other team. Some of them don't know what it is to check. Anybody can skate when they're going one way. Why the Royals didn't get four more goals, I'll never know."

The Cougars wore red jerseys last night.

Royals Hold Lead; Adam Gets No. 200

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

New Westminster, Royals, clung to their lead in the Western Hockey League Friday night by defeating Victoria Cougars while Saskatoon Quakers settled more firmly in the league basement with a loss to Vancouver Canucks.

Calgary Stampede played it rough and tough as they hosted Edmonton Flyers and the Edinburgh Cup champions pummeled the visitors 7-2.

In Vancouver, Doug Adam scored his 200th goal of his WHL career as Johnny Bower and the Canucks helped themselves to a 6-0 shutout. It was the third straight loss for Quakers, who dropped games to Vancouver and New Westminster on their current west coast jaunt.

The lacing the Cowboys gave Edmonton added up to 13 points for Calgary, one more than New Westminster but the Royals regained their one-point margin an hour later when Victoria went into. Canucks are a single point behind Calgary.

The high-flying Stampede slammed six goals behind Glen Hall in the Edmonton nets before Flyers could get untracked for a reply. Three of five goals of the Stamps scored in the second period came within 40 seconds while Edmonton were a man short.

Tonight's schedule has Saskatoon at New Westminster and Calgary at Edmonton.

Basketball games will be played at S. J. Willis on Tuesday, Thursday and Friday nights and Saturday night at the new Central Junior High School gym.

Next Thursday night in senior B action, Shamrocks test Fletcher's.

MCC SIDE SHOCKED IN LOSS TO AUSSIES

ADELAIDE, Australia (Reuters)—Britain's Marylebone Cricket Club suffered a stunning setback today when South Australia equalled the MCC's first innings score of 246 for the loss of only seven wickets.

The second day's play ended then, 10 minutes early because of poor light.

South Australia, one of the weakest of Australia's state teams, took only 15 minutes longer than their rivals to reach their total. The MCC had anticipated an easy victory in West Australia.

CANADIAN IN UPSET WIN

Howard Ready For Paddy Now

HALIFAX (CP)—Richard (Kid) Howard's handlers were jubilantly yelling for a shot at world lightweight champion Paddy Demarco after Howard's upset win over Orlando Zulueta of Havana, Cuba, on an unanimous 10-round decision Friday night.

However, Zulueta, ranked No. 2 lightweight challenger by Ring magazine, loudly claimed he had been robbed and his veteran manager, John "Pop" Ryan, of New York, called it a "home-town decision. My boy won seven rounds at least."

Zulueta, unmarked and looking fresh, said he would "like to meet Howard again, but in a United States ring." Zulueta won a split decision over Howard here in 1952.

Howard, Canadian lightweight champion, was cut over his left eye and was bleeding slightly from the nose at the end but he said Zulueta never hurt him. Neither fighter was knocked down.

Howard at 138½ was two pounds heavier than Zulueta but the Cuban fighter had three inches in height and reach.

In scoring the fight, referee Jack Delaney gave Howard five rounds, Zulueta four and one event. Judge Harold Johnson had Howard 5-2-3 and Judge Bill Walker carded Howard 3-2-5. The Canadian Press card showed Howard 5-2-3.

Martinez Kayoes Fiore

NEW YORK (AP)—Vince Martinez set up Carmine Fiore with stinging left jabs and then cut loose with a two-fisted barrage to score a technical knockout over his blood-spattered opponent in 2:32 of the seventh round Friday night at Madison Square Garden. Martinez weighed 148½, Fiore 147. When referee Harry Kessler intervened, not a second too soon, Fiore was draped over the ropes near his own corner with blood spouting from cuts around both eyes.

BOYCOTT CHARGED

Complete Boxing Investigation Due

NEW YORK (UP)—A sweeping investigation of the fight game, probing particularly into the controversial activities of the powerful International Boxing Guild, was underway today by the district attorney's office.

Books, records and several affidavits of the guild were suddenly subpoenaed by the district attorney's office. It became known, despite the fact that no one in the office cared to comment on it.

Almost simultaneously, the New York State Athletic Commission announced it would hold a hearing next Friday regarding charges brought against the guild by the manager's metropolitan boxing alliance.

The commission made its announcement after hearing sworn testimony from managers Al Braverman, Frankie (J. J.) Jacobs, Lew Meyers, Duke Stefano and Joe Chap that they and their fighters were being boycotted by St. Nicholas Arena, Madison Square Garden and other fight arenas.

Other representatives of the alliance, including managers,

LEAHY LIKES OUR GRID —MOST OF IT, THAT IS

TORONTO (CP)—Frank Leahy, former coach of the Fighting Irish of Notre Dame, said Friday night he likes the wide-open play of Canadian football, the no-time-out rule, the rouge and the run-back of kicks.

But the 46-year-old coach who retired last year after leading the U.S. college team to an 11-year record of 87 victories, 11 losses and nine ties, had dislike, too. He said he doesn't like the three downs, the 10-yard blocking rule, nor the rule requiring the ball to be scrimmage on the one-yard line.

Leahy, now vice-president of a metal sales firm, was in Toronto to address the annual convention of the American Foundrymen's Society.

Canadian Cagers Defeated

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (BUP)—A surprisingly strong Brazil team shaped up today as the all-winning but rather disappointing United States team's most dangerous opponent in the round-robin final round of the world amateur basketball championships.

The Peoria, Ill., Caterpillars, representing the United States, beat Uruguay, 64-59, Friday night for its third straight victory, while Brazil romped over Canada, 82-66. The Philippines defeated China, 48-38, in last night's other game.

A crowd of 35,000 saw Kendall Sheets score 18 points and Kirby Minter 12 to lead the U.S. team's attack in the toughest game of the tournament so far. Brazil, which meets United States in the last game of the round-robin on Nov. 5, surged off to a 19-6 lead over Canada and never was in trouble as it established itself as a serious contender for the title.

Mrs. F. G. Hope was elected women's captain at the annual meeting of the women's section of Uplands Golf Club Friday.

Connie Turns to Fans, 'Tell Me What to Do'

PHILADELPHIA (UP)—Connie Mack sent a "tell me what to do" plea to the fans today after American League club owners turned down a proposal to sell his Philadelphia Athletics and keep them here.

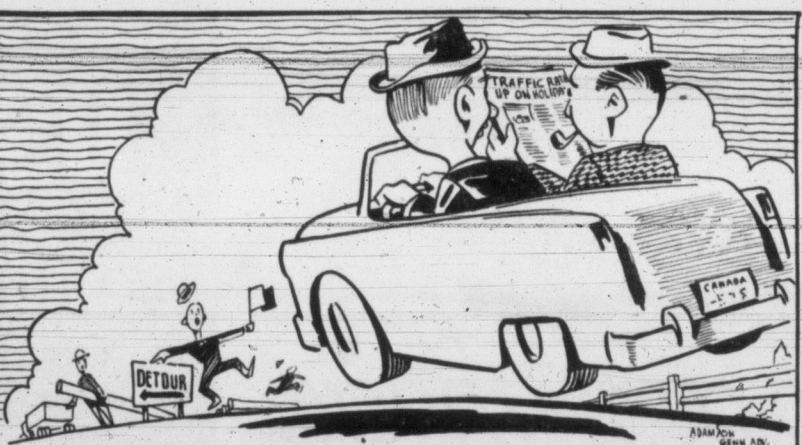

The 92-year-old A's president, in an "open letter to Philadelphia fans," rapped the owners for rejecting the bid of an eight-man Philadelphia syndicate to buy the team for $4,000,000.

The silver-haired Connie said the league's action, announced without any explanation in New York last Thursday, left him and his two sons, Roy and Earle, without a move to make.

"Tell me what to do," he asked the fans who failed to support the team in recent years and paved the way for the A's present financial plight.

A statement by Mack, released by his wife, said the "Kansas City set-up wants the

Quinn Makes Pins Talk In Posting New Record

By RON COULTER

Local tenpin league bowling records aren't worth the chalk used to mark them on the board.

That's been the case the past month in Gibson's Commercial Tenpin League, the most recent example occurring Wednesday night.

After getting away to a normal start with a 173 single, veteran Alex Quinn then warmed to the task and racked up a 255 the second game, followed by a 199 for a commendable 627 total.

His 255 single set a new league record, topping the 245 turned in last week by L. Slang. The week previous Connie McBeth held the mark at 231.

Other high triples Wednesday night were fired by Andy Ovecharick, 604; Dick Bowles, 596; Wilbur Webb, 585; Barney Barnswell, 580; George Lindsay, 572; B. Brown, 568; Bob Morrison of local golf fame, 565; Ed Simmons, 557, and Frank McClement at 552.

Ovecharick, 225, 203; Bowles, 224; J. Fletcher, 219, 203; Morrison, 215; Barnswell, 209, 200; B. Saxon, 209; McClement, 208; Lindsay, 207; V. Mawer, 205; A. Turner, Simmons and Len Parsons, 203; Webb, 202; H. Hazard, 201, and Cas Sapa with 200 had other leading singles.

In mixed action, George Motion, 570; Nick Howard, 561, and Webb, 554, rolled high threes. Motion had a 232 single and Howard a 215. Lolly Hughes shot a 179 single and 504 triple, while Marge Beasley posted a 179 single and 503 total to lead the women.

Aussies Plan Biggest Olympic Stadium Ever

MELBOURNE (Reuters) — A new triple-deck concrete and steel grandstand with a roof deck will increase the seating capacity at Melbourne's Cricket Ground stadium to 120,000 for the 1956 Games.

This will make the stadium, only a mile from downtown Melbourne, the largest ever used for the Olympic Games. At the 1932 Olympics in Los Angeles the stadium capacity was 108,000.

The opening and closing ceremonies, track and field events and the soccer competition will be held at the Cricket Ground.

A stone's throw from the main stadium is Olympic Park, which is being transformed for the games. The old stands have been torn down and work started on new buildings.

The show piece in the new building program is the swimming and diving stadium, which will cost $675,000 and accommodate 5,500 people on its sloping sides.

Also at Olympic Park will be the velodrome for cycling events, which can be watched by 15,200.

Olympic Park will have two smaller arenas, a combined track and soccer field, and a smaller training track.

With swimming and diving, water polo, cycling, soccer preliminaries and training, Olympic Park will be the busiest meeting place outside the main stadium.

ERECT OLYMPIC VILLAGE

One of the biggest jobs for the games is the erection of the Olympic Village at Heidelberg. Work on the site began in April this year.

The village, about 7½ miles from the main stadium, will consist of 780 modern brick and concrete houses and apartments. After the games, these will be used for private housing.

The village will cater for 6,000 athletes, and team officials, a total based on statistics of previous Olympics.

Facilities at the village will include laundry, medical and dental centres, hairdressing salons, a canteen, a mending and shoe repair centre, banks, Senators of the Quebec Hockey post offices and sports fields.

V's (Warwicks) Take Okanagan Puck Lead

Canada's hope in the World Hockey Championships, the Penticon V's, are back in top spot in the Okanagan Senior Hockey League after trimming Kamloops Elks 5-1 Friday night.

Kimberley Dynamiters, meanwhile, withstood a third-period drive by Trail Smoke Eaters to win their home game in the Western International Hockey League, 3-2.

At Penticon, Dick Warwick scored shortly after the two-minute mark of the opening period and then slapped home the winner a minute later. Bill Warwick scored two goals and Kassian added the other for Penticon, while Joe Connors fired the only Kamloops tally in the second.

Dynamiters scored three first-period goals, played through a scoreless second period and then held the Smoke Eaters to a pair.

England Picks Rep Soccer Side

LONDON (CP)—England's soccer selectors, preoccupied with shaping a successful national team, have picked another batch of candidates.

A short list of 17 probabilities, including some old hands, was named Wednesday night for the Nov. 10 match against Wales, second international game of the season. Should the 11 players finally selected, they just might represent England against world champion Germany at Wembley Dec. 1.

Nothing is certain in a football picking process which goes on and on. England has picked 20 players for the three all-star games so far, threatening the record 48 chosen in the 13 representative matches last year.

The only constant factor has been veteran English skipper Bill Wright of Wolverhampton, dropped just once in 50 games, but never certain whether he will play centre half or some other spot.

Along with Wright, the selectors have named eight of the team which crushed the Republic of Ireland 6-0 a while ago. But only goalie Ray Wood and left fullback Roger Byrne of Manchester United, with Wright, are regarded as almost certain starters against Wales.

The shift-and-change policy, which has aroused much criticism, is indicated by the choice of four possible centre forwards Wednesday night. Old standby Nat Lofthouse of Bolton, in six times this year and last, faces opposition from Ron Allen of West Bromwich, Don Review of Manchester City and Roy Bentley of Chelsea.

Bentley and Len Shackleton of Sunderland, an inside right, are getting their first chance to play for England in a long time. Johnny Haynes from Fulham, other players more or less regular in an irregular team are: evergreen Stanley Matthews, Blackpool's elderly in destructible right-winger; left half Jim Dickinson of Portsmouth and two promising young forwards from the second division in Harry Hooper of West Ham and play for England in a long time. Three Women Testify in Bigamy Case

Hugh S. Campbell Handcuffed at Preliminary Hearing in Duncan

DUNCAN—Two redheads and one brunette gave evidence Friday of how, during the past six years, 22-year-old Hugh Samuel Campbell married each of them.

Handcuffed during the one-hour preliminary hearing, he faced two charges of bigamy and was committed to a higher court by Magistrate A. C. Sutton.

Duncan RCMP laid the first charge that on May 1, 1954, while still married to Alice Leona Scott, he married Patricia Ann Turner.

On giving evidence for the first time, Miss Scott gave her name as both Scott and Campbell. The young redheaded woman was shown a certificate by D. K. McAdam, prosecuting for the Crown, and said that "it is the same as the one I have as a marriage license." She said that both Campbell's and her name were on the license.

MARRIED IN 1948
Witness said that Campbell married her at St. Barnabas Church, Medicine Hat, when she was 15 years old and he was two years younger. Date of the marriage was June 8, 1948.

Miss Scott said that she had known the accused about a year before their marriage and that he was living on First Street, Medicine Hat, with his parents.

For about three months after their marriage they resided in an apartment at Medicine Hat. Miss Scott said she then left Medicine Hat to live with her parents, and came back a month later.

"He did not come with me, and I do not know where he went. We did not live together as man and wife after that," she said.

LIVED IN IDAHO
Asked by James J. Proudfoot, counsel for the accused, if she went to the United States from Medicine Hat, witness replied that she did and lived in Idaho. This was on Jan. 1, 1950. She said she lived there for three years, and admitted that she was served with divorce papers while there.

Miss Turner, a brunette, said that the accused married her May 1, 1954, in Duncan, at the home of Rev. F. H. Gough, minister of the United Church. Witnesses to this marriage were Rose Welch and Doug Taylor. She said that she lived at Shawigan Lake and identified a marriage certificate bearing Campbell's name and her own.

The second charge was laid by the second spouse, Miss May Harriet Scott-Polson of Elk Lake, Saanich, that on or about August 5, 1950, Campbell unlawfully did commit bigamy.

Miss Scott was again called to give evidence after which she was cross-examined by Mr. Proudfoot. He wished to know what her correct name was. Witness replied, "Scott," and

Industry Seeks Higher Tariffs

THE COWICHAN LEADER

Trade competition has a habit of creating its own opposition and thus making for worse competition. In trade between countries it becomes worse through tariffs, subsidies, various forms of licensing and trade agreements.

As the only radical alternative is complete freedom and chaos, it is likely that a young industrial country like Canada will be paying more attention to tariffs as time goes on and competition becomes keener. Of the two, a tariff policy or complete freedom, a tariff policy offers our only hope at present.

Recently there have been visible straws in the wind from various quarters, all carrying the same message, namely, the hope that tougher marketing will not get any tougher than it is now and that there will be greater give and take.

Fluoride—For and Against

TWIN CITIES TIMES

Social Crediters at their provincial convention were no worse than some other groups in their unscientific approach and in their unequivocal attitude toward the question of fluoridation of water supplies.

We have been given a pretty clear picture at various times of the hopelessness of producing enough dentists to keep up with the demand for their services in Canada.

The only solution is preventive methods to cut down dental decay. Medical and dental associations have accepted the findings of protracted investigation of fluoride-treated water supplies in reducing the instances of dental caries. Science has proven the point. Why should we listen to the opinions of political delegates or any other group of laymen on a subject of this nature.

Talk, Talk, Talk

COMOX DISTRICT FREE PRESS

School trustees here spent a lot of unnecessary time, Monday, discussing the question of whether school premises could be used for political meetings.

After long-drawn-out reasoning it was eventually decided that the schools would not be used for organizational meetings at which the general public would be present.

There is nothing wrong with that decision as far as we can see. The complaint comes from the unnecessarily long time in arriving at what seems to be a rather obvious conclusion.

Lake Area Included In Hospital Scheme

DUNCAN—An investigation committee once more will consider the possibility of Cowichan Lake co-operating with Duncan in building one hospital for the district, directors of King's Daughters' Hospital decided Friday evening.

This was a slight retraction on a motion passed at the September meeting when they abandoned plans for a $1,500,000 hospital because of the decision of Lake Cowichan people to build one of their own.

Opinion of directors at Friday's meeting showed that they were still in favor of attempting a reconciliation with the lake residents, and that more could be accomplished if there was just one hospital instead of two within a 20-mile radius.

GRADUAL PROGRESS
At the September meeting directors decided to proceed with the construction of a self-contained $300,000 unit as the first part of a new structure. Henry Irwin thought that it would be a mistake to go ahead here because "we do not know if a hospital is going to be built at the lake. The new unit should be left in abeyance until an investigation committee has made a survey."

Percy Hawkins told the meeting that if Lake Cowichan decided to join with Duncan, the new unit then would be too small.

DOCTORS ANNOYED
Mr. Wellburn reminded the directors that the doctors at King's Daughters' were critical of the board's attitude of "dilly-dallying."

"First we say 'build one hospital, then a smaller block.' At the doctors' last meeting they were critical of the board," he said. He told the board to "stop stalling" and asked definitely what it is going to do.

An investigation committee comprising R. W. Whitmore, chairman; P. Hawkins, H. Stone, J. F. LeQuessne and H. Irwin then was appointed to see if Cowichan Lake was definitely going to build a hospital and to send a circular to lake residents to obtain their views on this matter. They were allotted up to $500 for expenses.

'Midway' Fall Fairs Face Cut in Grants

Government Dissatisfied With Exhibitions Where Sideshows Overshadow Agriculture

DUNCAN—Agricultural fairs that devote more attention to their midways than their exhibits were given notice Friday that the provincial agricultural department is not disposed to continue its aid to them indefinitely.

Speaking at the prize-giving banquet of Cowichan Exhibition, Len Johnson, Victoria, superintendent of Farmers' Institutes, and secretary, B.C. Fairs Association, said one fair in the Fraser Valley had 45 classes and only 32 exhibits and that another B.C. fair had 16 exhibitions, 13 of whom came from Alberta, but operated a car bingo game.

"It costs the taxpayers a lot of money to send judges to these fairs and I can tell you that the minister is concerned at the tendency by some agricultural bodies to think more of their midways, rodeos and bingo games than of their exhibits," declared Mr. Johnson.

He added: "I hope Cowichan Exhibition never reaches this stage, nor reaches the position when the close scrutiny of the department becomes necessary."

He regretted that there were some B.C. fairs today that were not worthwhile as agricultural shows.

Guest speaker at the banquet, Dr. J. C. Berry, UBC animal husbandry expert, appealed for more educational features in annual exhibitions and said there was considerable scope in this field at present.

He declared fall fairs the best measure of community spirit and co-operation, and of value second to none among community events.

HIGH GRADES
He said B.C. Jerseys and Ayrshires had taken a leading place in these classes at the recent Portland Pacific International Show and that the average B.C. entries were superior to the general run of American animals.

Miss Mary Waldon, president, Cowichan Agricultural Society, said the recent exhibition had shown a small profit with excellent livestock and 4-H divisions.

R. M. Strachan, MLA; Mayor J. C. Wragg, and Reeve C. A. P. Murison also spoke. James Turner, Royal Oak, was awarded the coveted Muttler Shield as the outstanding livestock exhibitor.

PIGOT FAMILY BUILDS A HOME

After a Long Investigation N.H.A. Seemed Most Suitable Plan

The Pigot family and the home they are building under N.H.A.

Why we built an N.H.A. home. We needed a home. Renting was all right, but after all you don't get very far paying the bills for somebody else. If we could find enough money for a down payment we would be saving something. Also there would be a certain satisfaction in owning (along with the mortgage company) our own home. We contacted various real estate agents who showed us homes in the city.

It seemed a few homes we liked either weren't in the districts we preferred or the down payment was too high, or when low down payment houses were available a second mortgage or agreement of sale was involved, and the monthly payments required to satisfy these mortgages were a lot more than we could afford.

NEEDING THREE BEDROOMS

Another problem we ran into was the scarcity of three bedroom homes in the Victoria area. It seems that after the war everybody who needed and could afford a home had a two-bedroom home built. I suppose all the ex-servicemen who had married during the war were too busy, or it wasn't practical to be raising a family. Also after the war it seems a lot of the fellows got married. All these people who built homes, using their war credits no doubt, built the home that suited them then.

Since then, I guess most of them have been increasing their families, selling their two-bedroom homes and buying three-bedroom homes. Even in the two-child families, if the sexes are opposite, three bedrooms are a requisite.

We had talked over what we wanted and had outlined some of the general requirements and necessities.

1. It had to meet the needs of our family.
2. It had to be comfortable.
3. Simplicity was desirable above useless ornamentation; besides it costs less.
4. The home had to be efficiently laid out.
5. We wanted a lot for our building dollar.
6. Our down payment had to be lower than what was being asked.
7. And the same went for our monthly payments.

BCE's Island System Gets Power Boost

Capacity of the B.C. Electric's electric system on Vancouver Island has been increased this month by the introduction into service of a third 20,000-KVA transformer unit at Goward station. The massive transformer, which increases the station's potential by 33 1/2 per cent, is the latest procurable with special protective devices. Weighing over 60 tons without the oil bath used as a cooling agent, it required special handling facilities en route here from the manufacturers. The cost of the new equipment and its installation was in excess of $235,000.

The company also said that steady progress is being made in a continuing program in Greater Victoria of converting 4,000-volt circuits to 12,000 volts in the interest of keeping ahead of electrical demand. A total of $230,000 was earmarked for this year's portion of the program, with work including sections of Oak Bay, Colwood, Happy Valley and Rocky Point.

QUIZZING THE GARDENER

Budding on Rose Stocks

BY JACK BEASTALL

I am told the reason for a poor showing of roses could be "drying of the union." What does this mean?

Roses are budded to wild rose rootstocks and the place where the bud was set is called the "union." It usually shows as a swelling or kink in the main stem a few inches above the roots.

With roses, this point should be planted from one to two inches below soil level to keep it moist so it may expand as the bush increases in size. Above and it becomes dried by wind and sun thereby forming a bottleneck to the plant's food supply. On fruit trees the union is always kept two inches above soil level to prevent the scion stock from forming its own roots.

Poppies anemones planted in early spring have flowered well. Should they be lifted now or left in the ground?

In a light sandy soil, the tubers of the poppy anemone, anemone coronaria, may be left over winter, but in a wet, heavy or clay soil they should be dug now, dried and stored, and replanted in early spring.

When should I prune cistus kewensis and C. praecox?

These two beautiful early-flowering broom should be pruned immediately after flowering, which is in May. The growths which have flowered are cut back by about one-half and any weak or dead portions removed. Pruning in the fall removes next year's flowers.

Increased Activity by UN Proven Need, Lions Told

Accomplishments of the UN so far in the fields of medicine, agriculture and industry prove conclusively the need for increased activity of this type by member countries.

Speaking at a meeting of the Victoria Lions Club, Dr. A. E. Chatwin, president of the Victoria branch of the United Nations Association, told members these accomplishments were achieved in spite of political differences, which the UN is attempting to settle around the conference table.

"A country is no better than the people in it," he told members, "and the world is no better than the countries in it."

"The UN looks at the world as you look at your community and does what it can to improve it."

"At first the UN offered backward countries a democratic way of life—and nothing else. Russia and the communist countries offered food and clothing.

"For a long time, UN officials wondered why so many countries were looking to Russia rather than the West.

WALS NOT ENOUGH

"The answer is simple. In most backward lands, people know little of democratic ideals, but they do understand food, clothing and shelter.

"So the United Nations had to change its tactics, and today, instead of just offering ideals, undernourished lands are being taught to help themselves. We know that we can't feed them, so we're doing the next best thing—helping them to increase their own productivity.

"And because of the volatile political news coming from UN headquarters all the time, few people realize just what the United Nations is doing otherwise.

ENEMIES UNITED

The UN has organized twelve nations in the Mediterranean area, who formerly were seldom on speaking terms, to work together, ignoring boundaries, to stamp out locusts.

"Improving the rice crop in Asia is also being looked into by UN experts. In India, new types of rice are being grown in an effort to increase crop yields.

The organization is doing much to stamp out disease.

"In Burma, an experimental 700-square-mile area is nearly free of dread-malaria," Dr. Chatwin said. "And in other parts of the world disease is being fought whether it is plant or animal disease.

"Wherever possible, the UN is experimenting to stop illness, to raise living standards, to provide food. Even if they can't settle our political differences, the UN is showing the way to a better world."

Ford Workers Fail To Win Wage Hike

TORONTO (CP)—A conciliation board has recommended against a wage increase sought by 143 employees of Ford Motor Company of Canada, Ltd., at its suburban Etobicoke township parts depot.

Its report released Thursday night said there was no evidence that the workers' members of the United Automobile Workers CIO-CCL are not receiving a fair and reasonable wage. It said they average $1.57 an hour and benefits mounting to 30 cents an hour.

ADENAUER PROVES EQUAL TO NEWSMAN'S PROBING

WASHINGTON (AP)—West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer parried with finesse Friday a question that would have put him squarely in the hot U.S. congressional campaign.

The question, asked at a National Press Club lunch: Did the chancellor think President Eisenhower was right in asking for the election of a Republican Congress?

The reply, relayed through an interpreter and greeted with a roar of laughter: "Did you gentlemen expect the president to ask for the election of a Democratic Congress?"

Catholic Archbishop Blasts School Brief

VANCOUVER (CP)—Archbishop W. M. Duke, head of the Roman Catholic Diocese of Vancouver, Friday termed "distinctly anti-Catholic" a Protestant League of Canada brief to the provincial government against financial support for Catholic schools.

The archbishop said the league was a small group which does not represent British Columbia Protestants.

BRIEF SUBMITTED

His statement followed presentation of the four-point brief against "subsidization of Catholic schools by the provincial treasury," and urging retention of the existing school system.

"The brief came from the Vancouver and Victoria branches of the Canadian Protestant League, a society that is distinctly anti-Catholic and of very limited membership," the archbishop's statement said.

"The petition charges that Catholic schools teach intolerance of other Christian religions."

NO CHARGES

"Throughout Canada, Catholic schools are regularly inspected by their respective departments of education and no charges have ever been made against any school."

The Protestant brief followed a June 13 cabinet meeting of Roman Catholic bishops who made two requests:

1. That Roman Catholic schools' taxes go direct to the separate schools, instead of helping pay for public schools.

Young Narcotic Serves Sentence At Secret Location

VANCOUVER (CP)—Joyce Markewitch, at 15 the youngest girl ever convicted here on a charge of narcotics possession, will serve her six-month sentence in some institution other than Oakalla Prison Farm.

Police refused to disclose the name of the prison where she will serve her term.

The girl told Magistrate Gordon Scott during her trial that she had received threats after testifying in police court and that she was "frightened to death of going to Oakalla."

A special order in council from the attorney-general allowed her to be placed in another institution. A police court official said Friday she "is in an institution where she will be given maximum protection and will have every chance to be cured of her addiction."

Adapt Your Spare Basement Area As Special Room for Television

A lot of people are turning hitherto unused basement areas into television rooms.

Using techniques developed by Western Woods Trend House architects for disguising unsightly pipes and furnace ducts, they are getting more use out of the present space of their homes, as well as providing a special room for exclusive television, which so many home planners recommend.

A particularly good example of this is in the Regina Trend House, where western woods were used to render an otherwise obstructive furnace duct into a virtually unnoticed ceiling feature.

The same trick can be used, of course, to install playrooms or bedrooms in areas where pipes, ducts, and other obstructions abound.

Simplest way to overcome the problem—as demonstrated in several of the Trend Houses—is to "furr-down," that is, frame around, these eyesores.

Your materials, as the diagram show, are simple: You'll need 2" x 3" for hanging studs, 2" x 4" for framing, 1/2-inch plywood for strapping, and of course whatever type of western wood panelling you choose to cover the frame.

CAN MAKE YOURSELF

There are some easy-to-member do's and don'ts:

As a precaution against fire, don't place the framing close to hot-air ducts from the furnace. If, sometimes, you have to get close, wrap the framing members with asbestos, as a special precaution, and place sheet metal between duct and framing.

If your pipes don't run horizontally parallel to the ceiling, but slope up from the furnace, try "furring-down" diagonally, following that slope. You'll be pleasantly surprised at the effects of design and decorating in interior finish you can achieve from variations from the absolute vertical and horizontal like this.

A built-in bar, lounge, desk, any of which you can make yourself easily using western woods, can fit in under a low ceiling.

Two Victoria Jazz Groups To Feature Program Nov. 9

Two well-trained groups will be heard in a jazz program at Victoria Ballroom, November 9.

The Victoria Jazz Society will present a three-part program at the Government Street ballroom, featuring Vern Bryant's trio and a lively sextet led by tenor sax player Bill Heybrook.

The Bryant Trio features the leader on clarinet, stylish Johnny Gittens and his futuristic piano interpretations, and nimble bassist Doug Peaker.

The other group filling out the program will introduce a new trumpet player in the city. Al "Oop" Muirhead, a former Saskatoon boy, will be featured on a number of solos demonstrating his taste and technique.

Others in the group are Heybrook on tenor, veteran Jack Kraebling on trombone and a rhythm section composed of Mike Pretty on drums, Ray Petch on piano and Don Hardy on bass.

There will be no advance ticket sale but tickets will be available at the door. The program will start at 8:30.

Mr. Garbovitsky was born in Sebastopol, Russia, and studied at St. Petersburg Conservatory. He arrived in Canada in 1926 and was a teacher and guest conductor in Winnipeg. He re-organized the Calgary Symphony in 1929 and stayed with it until the group was disbanded 10 years later.

He moved to Vancouver in 1940 after appearing as a guest conductor with the symphony, and was associated with a number of orchestras during his years here.

JACK BEASTALL SAYS

Old Art of Clay Burning Helps Bring Soil Into Production

By JACK BEASTALL

Since clay is the major ingredient, if not the whole, of much of the soil around Victoria, it is a major problem with many gardeners.

Recently there have been many requests for some information on clay-burning, a process used extensively in England to make stiff clays more workable.

The method may appear involved to the casual reader, but where one has the facilities for doing the job it is no more trouble than building a proper compost heap.

The correct way in which clay is burned is unknown to most gardeners, Jack Beastall yet it is an age-old practice of farmers and nurserymen in Europe.

Usually, a circle some five feet in diameter is marked out and four tunnels, formed of bricks laid on edge, are extended from the circumference to the centre.

These are draught flues. The bricks being laid loosely together permit air to reach all parts and keep the fire smouldering equally throughout the heap.

Over the flues and within the marked circle the wood for the fire is piled. A good quantity is required because it must almost burn through before the clay is put on, yet leave a deep bed of red coals.

SPRINKLE WITH COAL DUST

Once this bed has been sufficiently deep, the lumps of clay can be applied. For burning clay must not be too soft and wet, nor too dry and powdery. The required happy medium is learned from experience.

The first layer of clay lumps, not too closely placed, is sprinkled with fine coal dust, and successive layers are added, each with its coal dust sprinkle.

After two or three layers are in place, a layer of tree prunings, brush, or other burnable garden waste is added, and the stacking repeated in this order until the pile is completed.

Finally, the pile is covered with wet grass, wet leaves, or inverted grass sods so as to maintain steady smoking without an open blaze.

The pile is actually a giant Dagwood sandwich consisting of a deep bed of live coals at the bottom, a few layers of clay lumps covered with coal dust, a layer of prunings, more clay and coal dust, then more prunings until the cap is reached.

SMOULDER FOR DAYS

With a good draught through the brick flues the fire will smoulder for several days, and when burnt out, the clay lumps will break down to a fine powder combined with wood ash.

This mixture, while still dry, is worked into a stiff clay soil, and even a proportion of one powder to eight clay will make an appreciable difference to the texture.

While this is the correct method of burning clay, the average home gardener will have to modify the instructions to some degree. The important thing, however, is to create a steady heat without flame, and maintain it for a long enough period.

Three Get Life Terms For Killing Cafeman

MONTREAL (CP)—Three men whose murder trial ended Tuesday when they pleaded guilty to manslaughter for the fatal beating of restaurateur B. J. McAbbie, today were sentenced to life imprisonment. The three given life terms are Leo Servant, Patrick Gerald McKuhen and Roy Colligan. Gertrude Servant, sister of Leo Servant, was given 10 years.

FLYING SAUCER OVER ROME LEAVES ITS CALLING-CARD

ROME (AP)—Something strange—described by cab drivers as a flying saucer—was seen over Rome Thursday by coffee sippers, a young newspaper man and U.S. Ambassador Clare Boothe Luce.

The young journalist, AP employee Maurizio Andreolo, said it looked like a luminous silver coin.

Mrs. Luce said, "I saw something but I don't know what it was."

The thing zipped over the city in late afternoon before sundown. From Via Veneto, the fashionable street the U.S. embassy is on, it looked to be a moon dashing across the sky at fantastic speed.

"It flew silently and its size at the distance was of the diameter of an American half-dollar," said Andreolo. As a matter of fact, Andreolo said he saw three things, two of them trailing the first.

A few minutes after they appeared cab drivers declared they saw fine cotton or wool particles falling from the sky and hanging on telephone wires.

The same sort of phenomenon was reported Wednesday in Tuscany.

CHURCHILL CELEBRATES 30TH MILESTONE AS MP

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Sir Winston Churchill Friday completed his 30th consecutive year as a member of the House of Commons.

Altogether he has served 52 years in the lower House of Parliament—more than any other present member. He was elected first in 1900 but missed the years 1922-24.

The only present member with a longer consecutive service than the prime minister is D. R. Grenfell, who has represented the Welsh district of Gower since 1922. Sir Winston will be 80 November 30.

BOY'S DEVOTION REWARDED

Defender of Mongrel Paroled, Keeps Tippie

WEST MONROE, La. (AP)—Ten-year-old Joe Cooper, who defended his mongrel dog with a loaded shotgun, was paroled to the custody of a married sister after a former governor agreed to spark a country-wide fund-raising drive to give him a private school and college education.

Former governor James A. Noe, who operates a radio station in New Orleans and a television and radio station in adjoining Monroe, said he would advance money "to send the sixth-grader to the Webb School for Boys in Bell Buckle, Tenn., next Wednesday."

It all started when Tippi followed Joe to school October 6. Tippi wasn't vaccinated, and school officials picked him up, locked him in a closet and called pound officials to destroy him.

Joe pleaded with Mrs. Tina Clark, school principal, for the freedom of his dog. She refused. The undersized 10-year-old returned home and got the family shotgun, used his lunch money for a shell and returned in an attempt to free his dog.

Joe held Mrs. Clark and Truant officer Maurice Griggs at gunpoint until police relieved him of the gun.

Your Dog And Mine

By TAILWAGGER

Often, when I am exercising my dog—on the leash—in our city streets, I have been accosted by well-meaning people with the remark, "Why don't you let your dog run loose instead of keeping him chained up?" Apart from the fact that it is unlawful dogs allowed to run loose and unattended live dangerously in city traffic. A dog walking to the heel of his master is a pretty sight, but such an animal gets no more exercise than his master.

TRAFFIC TRAINING

For these reasons dogs should be traffic-trained. Take the pup for a walk (for this training is best carried out when the dog is young) in a quiet street—it is a good idea to choose a cul-de-sac for the first lesson. Release the dog off the leash he will run and, most likely, run off the sidewalk; as soon as he does say "Aht, Jock!" or whatever his name is, "Heel!" He will stop and return to you.

He should then be told he is a good dog the moment he is back on the sidewalk. In a short time he will associate going off the sidewalk with his master's displeasure. He should, of course, be led to the gutter on occasion; he will soon learn to go there "on his own," and sidewalks will thus be kept clean.

When the dog has thoroughly learned to run up and down the sidewalk, without going off it, he will wait at the end of it for your arrival. At first take him across roads at heel; later, on quiet roads, wave him on and he will run to the other side of the road and look back, waiting for you. If he stops or hesitates on the way over wave him on again. Dogs quickly learn this signal—a forward wave of the arm—for it means the opposite to the duration of staying at heel.

If, by mischance, your dog (or anyone else's) gets caught in traffic leave it to dodge the cars itself. Normally what happens is that a dog in the middle of the road and his master calls him. The dog looks at his master instead of at the oncoming traffic.

White, moving up the board, goes first. Repeat aloud rapidly without a lisp, if you can: A good cook cooks good gruel greaselessly ceaselessly. Sixty-six sick chicks twist thick sticks twitwed.

You may wish to add this idea to your list of decorations for a birthday celebration. It's a lollipop figure which may be used to doll up youngsters' place settings. Here's how to make one:

Fold a 5 by 10-inch piece of white tissue paper in half, the long way. Cut scallops on cut edges. Gather folded side about small lollipop, and stick to wrapper with cellophane tape. Gather a piece of pink crepe paper, 5 1/2 x 14 inches long, the stretching way, around lollipop, and tightly wrap a pipe cleaner around once. Pipe cleaner may first be covered with pink crepe paper, by stretching a 12 by 1-inch piece around and around, and fasten to loose end with cellophane tape. (Diagram 2 shows back view). Press front part of collar down.

Cut face from an old paper doll or magazine, and stick it on lollipop wrapper with stamping cellophane tape as shown in figure 3.

Gently stretch bottom of skirt all around, and stand doll on table. Provide a doll for each guest.

Steel Sparks Moderate U.S. Upswing

Some Lines Start Seasonal Climb

NEW YORK (AP)—Rising output of automobiles and steel set the tone this week for a moderate upswing of business in the United States.

Evidence of a seasonal climb was seen also in the latest statistics on freight carloadings—highest since Nov. 7.

Retail spending moved up. Commodity prices turned firm. Stock prices softened.

Consensus of industrial leaders seemed to be: Nothing spectacular in sight right now, but business should sail along on an even keel for quite a while longer.

Top executives of the country's two biggest steel companies predicted a further rise in steel production currently at its highest level in eight months.

Third-quarter earnings statements of the two steel giants, U.S. Steel and Bethlehem, compared favorably with 1953. But when viewed against lower production rates this year, they didn't show up too badly.

The pickup in steel production was spotlighted in the Buffalo, N.Y., area where Bethlehem's big Lackawanna plant raised its operating rate for the week to 92 per cent of capacity.

UP 20 PER CENT

Likewise encouraging was the scheduled operating rate for the entire industry. At 74.3 per cent of capacity, equal to 1,772,000 net tons, it showed a gain of 20 per cent since August.

A year ago the mills were turning out more than 2,000,000 tons of steel weekly.

New models topped developments in the auto industry as GM unveiled Chevrolets and Pontiacs for 1955. Ford and Chrysler will introduce their 1955 lines next month.

Dealers hurrying to clear out unsold 1954 models were heartened by the news that new car inventories had fallen to the lowest level in more than two years.

A somewhat plaintive note from the used car lots: A "marked decline" in used car sales was reported by the National Used Car Dealers' Assn. Carloadings moved up to within 7 per cent of year-ago volume.

OUT OF CRASH'S ASHES ...

Economic Marvel Created in States

By FRANK O'BRIEN
AP News Feature Writer

A new economic United States, the marvel of the world, has arisen from the bitter ashes of the great depression.

Just 25 years ago this week the nation reeled into the depression, started on its way by a stock market crash that shook the world.

Today, less than one generation later, their economy is twice the size, in terms of actual production of the roaring '30s.

More important, the character of the economy has changed in the past 25 years out of all recognition. Today, the nation looks forward to mounting much higher ground, with few voices to say that the hummocks ahead could conceal any such depression vales as did the peak of 1929.

Successive rebounds by the economy since Second World War from business dips in 1947 and 1953—with damage in terms of unemployment and loss to income and production minor by comparison with the 1929-1933 collapse—have spread a feeling of confidence.

Experience during the business dip of the last 15 months has added weight to the optimistic view of what lies ahead. During that time the nation's economy has absorbed two heavy blows without being knocked off its feet. Some 10 billions a year have been clipped from defense outlays. And a shift from a build-up of business inventories to liquidation of inventories took another nine billion a year out of total production.

Yet the nation's gross national product—sum total of its output of goods and services—has fallen off by no more than 12 billion dollars, some seven billion less than the production loss from reduced federal spending and reversal of inventory purchasing to inventory selling. At the same time, some sectors of the economy have continued to grow, while others have lost no ground.

Unemployment, as measured by the Census Bureau, grew from 1.8 per cent of the nation's civilian labor force in October, 1953, to a high of 5.8 per cent in February of this year. Since then it has fallen to about 4.5 per cent, as reported by the bureau for September.

These are gentle facts and figures, compared with the brutal losses that followed the great crash of 1929. And they illustrate an entirely different kind of economy at work.

A glance at the charts (above) shows how the economy plunged into the depression, rose slowly to 1937, staggered back a bit, grew fantastically during World War II, took a back-step in 1947, and had another huge growth in the 1950-1953 Korean conflict crisis.

What about the character of the change since 1929? A very few figures show the dramatic change. In 1939, at the end of the depression, 20 per cent of the nation's families had income of less than $500 a year, and only 24 per cent had income of $5,000 or more. And 65 per cent of the nation's families in 1939 had income no greater than $1,999.

Today, 25 per cent of the nation's families have income of $5,000 or over. And 61 per cent of the nation's families have incomes of $3,000 or more.

Lindsley Firm Plans Boost In Capital

OTTAWA (CP)—Quebec Metallurgical Industries, Ltd., plans to buy Cobalt Chemicals, Ltd., in a program which reaches across the Pacific Ocean and into Vancouver, northern British Columbia and the Yukon.

Quebec Metallurgical shareholders, at a special general meeting Nov. 10, will be asked to approve an increase in the company's capital stock from 1,500,000 to 2,000,000 shares.

The purpose, announced in a company statement Friday, is to allow purchase of Cobalt Chemicals at Cobalt, Ont., on the basis of one Quebec Metallurgical share for five Cobalt Chemical shares.

Thayer Lindsley, president, stated that during the 27 months Quebec Metallurgical has been directing Cobalt's operations under a management contract, it has developed and demonstrated a process for the treatment of arsenical cobalt-nickel ores such as occur in the Cobalt area, and in other districts of the world. Use of certain parts of the process has been licensed to Cobalt Chemicals for use only in their immediate plant.

The company controls claims and concessions in New Caledonia in the Pacific Ocean, with indicated reserve of 90,000,000 pounds of coal and a like amount of nickel.

Consideration now is being given, Mr. Lindsley continued, to establishment of a pilot plant at Vancouver, to treat 100 tons a day of New Caledonia concentrates to produce a cobalt-nickel matte.

The company is also obtaining options and leases of further areas in New Caledonia and the Philippines.

In order to treat these and other base metal areas and concentrates in the Pacific Ocean area, the company, through its subsidiary, Northwest Power Industries Ltd., has been investigating a large hydro-electric development in the British Columbia and Yukon area north of Taku Inlet, where engineers report feasibility of developing some 4,300,000 horsepower of low-cost power.

With these plans in mind, said Mr. Lindsley, and with the knowledge that Cobalt Chemicals will require additional financing for working capital, the company believed merger of the two companies would be mutually advantageous.

ONTARIO PAPER PLANT TO DOUBLE CAPACITY

FORT WILLIAM (CP)—The Dryden Paper Co. has approved plans for construction at its Dryden plant of mill additions that will double its present output in four years. Lands and Forests Minister Mapledoram of Ontario has announced. Estimated cost of the development is $11,600,000.

Present capacity of the mill is 72,000 tons of paper annually. Construction of a new bleach plant that will handle 92,000 tons annually is part of the program to be completed in 1958.

STOCK EXCHANGE REVIEWS

Downward Trend Rules All Markets

By GEORGE LINTON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

A downward pull gripped stock markets this week and rarely relaxed its hold.

There were short periods on the New York, Toronto and Montreal exchanges when prices gained narrowly but the lower trend beat down almost all strength and by the close of each session most sections had recorded losses.

New York observers recalled that Friday was the 25th anniversary of Oct. 29, 1929—the day Wall Street suffered the worst sell-off in history.

The day was worth remembering only as an anniversary. The character of trading this Friday had changed.

In 1929, more than 16,000,000 shares were traded. Volume Friday came to only 1,900,000.

In 1929, The Associated Press average of 60 stocks fell more than $11. It fell Friday, too, but only a comparatively mild $1.

The week's decline at Toronto was orderly and unarmoured was off 45.16, industrials 2.0 at 220.3, papers 2.02 at 1,023.89, and golds 1.53 at 60.23.

At Montreal banks were off 2.21 at 88.87.

At New York, the AP stock average closed Friday off $2.90 at $133.90.

Some Western oils fell sharply. Great Plains lost $1.12½, Peace Gas $1.10, Calgary & Edmonton $1. Royalty 75 cents and Pacific Petroleum 65 cents.

U.S. Investors Hurry To Buy Canada Stocks

Tax Gimmick Sparks Near-Record Purchases

Totaling $24 Millions in June-August Period

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—United States investors have been buying up Canadian stocks at a near-record pace.

Federal securities statisticians estimated Friday that the rate of purchase in the three months of June-August was the second highest in postwar years, exceeded only in the first half of 1952 when the Americans got oil fever.

The major new influence in this buying speed-up appears to be the increasing number of American-owned non-dividend investment firms operating in Canada.

These firms, subject to a 15 per cent Canadian income tax, do not declare dividends, but plow all earnings back into increased investments. Officials here attribute some price rises in Canadian stocks to heavy purchases by these organizations.

Since they get no dividends, American investors back home pay no taxes on earnings. The only tax they pay is on the increase in their original capital when they sell off shares and take profits.

The view here is that this procedure represents a saving in taxes to American investors and thus popularity of these investment firms is increasing. Their operations are based on a ruling in their favor by the U.S. treasury and securities exchange commission earlier this year.

Federal authorities estimated that in the three months ended last August these new Canadian diversified investment companies formed by U.S. interests raised some $90,000,000 in capital.

Part of this would be new capital, probably coming from many small investors in the U.S., and part from a switching or re-channelling of existing investment portfolios. Total American investment in Canada rose to an all-time high of $8,600,000,000 at the end of 1953.

REDUCE BOND HOLDINGS

As an indication of the jump in American stock buying in Canada, the bureau of statistics estimated that in the three months of June-August net sales of Canadian stocks to U.S. residents totaled $24,000,000. This was $5,000,000 more than the $19,000,000 sold to Americans in the previous five months.

While American investors increased purchases of Canadian stocks, they reduced their holdings of Canadian bonds. Officials feel some took advantage of the high exchange rate of the Canadian dollar in repatriating their bond investments to the U.S.

Thus, in August, Canada showed a net capital export of $7,500,000 of outstanding securities in international trade, first net export since August, 1953. And contrasting to a net capital import of $6,600,000 last July.

September Sets New Wheat Mark

WINNIPEG (CP)—September was Canada's best wheat-exporting month in more than a year. The board of grain commissioners reported today that 26,000,000 bushels were exported for the best monthly volume since July, 1953, and the best September volume since 1945.

The total for last September was 20,900,000 bushels and the 10-year September average is 17,300,000.

The same markets predominated as in August with the United Kingdom taking 9,900,000 bushels; West Germany, 3,500,000; Yugoslavia, 2,900,000; Belgium, 1,600,000; and Japan, 1,600,000.

Coarse grain exports continued to reflect a sharp cut-back in U.S. imports and September clearances were "only a fraction" of the volume moved during the same month last year.

The amounts, with last September's figures in brackets, were: oats, 1,200,000 (7,900,000); barley, 6,800,000 (10,600,000); rye, 20,000 (2,900,000).

Would consider taking any type of relative work, e.g., masonry, etc., by sub-contract. Box 954, Victoria Press.

'LIVELIEST SPOT IN TOWN'

Music Critic Finds Arts Centre Entertaining and Stimulating

By AUDREY ST. D. JOHNSON

If I were asked to nominate the liveliest spot in town—and I mean in the true sense, live, active, interesting—my choice would without hesitation fall on the Arts Centre.

There are few other spots I can think of where activity is continuous through a six-day week, embraces young and old, specializes in creative and informative experience while it entertains and stimulates, provides so much cost-free to its members, and where anyone with a challenging new idea can receive so warm a welcome and so much encouragement.

WELL-FILLED AGENDA

Let's look at the agenda for a month, commencing this week. On Wednesday members and non-members had an opportunity of hearing Thor Hansen in an illustrated lecture on arts and crafts in relation to mental health, Canadian culture and the national economy. Tonight, Victoria - education - cated Jack Shadolt, now considered one of Canada's leading painters, will lead a panel discussion on his aims and outlook, and it is practically guaranteed that no hard feelings will result if those puzzled by modern styles of painting ask a few pointed questions!

Tuesday, Mrs. Gwen Downes, a lively entertainer and actress, will speak on the history of the puppet theatre, illustrating her talk in her inimitable manner with actual puppet demonstrations. Saturday, one of the most fascinating evenings yet devised by the women's committee has been arranged.

CRAFTSMEN'S SKILLS
Victoria artists and craftsmen will be at the gallery to demonstrate their skills. Among them will be portrait, still life, oil and water color painting; pottery, weaving, sculpture, jewelry craft, metal craft, children's work and several other crafts.

On the following Wednesday, four experimental films and short musical offerings will make up an anthology program of diversified appeal. In the meantime, the Arts Centre's voluntary board is laying plans to present a young Canadian concert pianist, Marlon Barnum in recital, children's art classes are being carried on eight times a week with full registration, Friday luncheon concerts of recorded music are continuing—and these are open to all—while the galleries play host to a number of distantly related activities, from rock gardening to authorship. Statistically speaking, there are approximately 1,000 different events a year taking place at the Moss Street galleries.

SALON OF PHOTOGRAPHY
Next month the gallery is to provide an appropriate and spacious setting for Victoria's far-famed 14th annual International Salon of Photography. And the majority of these significant activities and events are free to all—while the galleries play host to a number of distantly related activities, from rock gardening to authorship. Statistically speaking, there are approximately 1,000 different events a year taking place at the Moss Street galleries.

Therein lies the simple answer to those unthinking people (for all I know, some of them unfortunately in governing positions) who apparently feel—and have even been known to state—that if such organizations as the Arts Centre cannot be self-supporting, there is no reason for them to exist!

The Arts Centre could in all probability be self-supporting if it raised prices of membership and admission several notches. But it would then enter the category of "exclusive" and would become a playground for the wealthy, thus defeating its purpose of 100 per cent usefulness to the community at large.

Like any church, its doors are open, both literally and figuratively, to all seekers and yearners after knowledge and succor from the stresses and strains of modern life. For those endowed with the God-given creative talent, it is an oasis in the wilderness.

Considering these facts, surely it must seem incredible that we have today in elected office, men who would see the Arts Centre of Greater Victoria close its friendly doors forever, while they mouth flimsy excuses against raising a little finger to keep them open. We have them today, I say. But we do not have to keep them. Let us remember that.

500 Doukhobors Chant Requiem For Dead Leader

BRILLIANT (BUP) — Some 500 orthodox Doukhobors made an orderly half-hour pilgrimage to the tomb of Peter (The Lordly) Verigin here Thursday to mourn his death 30 years ago.

The group recited prayers and chanted hymns at the tomb in a ceremony which has become a traditional rite with the Russian religious sect.

Peter died in a train explosion near Farron, B.C., in 1924, 20 years after he brought the Sons of Freedom sect to Canada. His grandson, John J. Verigin, came from Grand Forks to attend the ceremony.

More Bodies Found

TORONTO (BUP)—Searchers found the bodies of two women victims of Hurricane Hazel today, and strong winds sweeping the lake were expected to wash more in toward shore. At least 10 persons still were missing.

Ottawa Delays Action on CPA Polar Flights

OTTAWA (CP)—The government has reached no decision on Canadian Pacific Airlines' application to operate a trans-polar air route from Vancouver to Amsterdam, it has been learned here. Informants said the application has neither been approved nor rejected, although the government was reported to have a favorable attitude towards the bid. It was not known what attitude Trans-Canada Air Lines has taken towards CPA's application; whether it intends to oppose it or take a neutral position. Meanwhile, another trans-polar link between North America and Scandinavia is expected to start operations next month. Scandinavian Airlines System plans flights between Copenhagen and the United States, with stop-over rights at Winnipeg for refueling.

GUILTY ANYWAY

HART, Mich. (UP)—Justice Gayle Joslin ruled that the owner of a car was guilty of driving while drunk even though he wasn't piloting his car at time of his arrest. Joslin ruled the owner was guilty because he permitted another man, also intoxicated, to drive the vehicle.

Socred Attack Said 'Disgrace'

Liberal MLA Says Civil Service Indictment Entirely Unfounded

George Gregory, Victoria Liberal M.L.A., today termed "little short of disgraceful" the Social Credit convention's attack on the B.C. civil service as "willfully inefficient."

Mr. Gregory, in a prepared statement, said he had withheld comment on the matter until the government, through its spokesmen, Provincial Secretary Wesley Black had had a chance to retract (Mr. Black at the government employees' convention in Nanaimo Friday said the cabinet had been "surprised" by the resolution and was unaware of any basis for it.)

Mr. Gregory, speaking for his Victoria constituents, declared B.C.'s civil service is the finest in the Commonwealth and in no way deserved the sweeping indictment of the Socred resolution.

"We are amazed and shocked (in Victoria) that not one voice should have been raised in their defense at the convention," he said.

Mr. Gregory declared the Socreds had passed the resolution "without being offered one iota of proof to support the statement."

"Now, he added, 'no one appears able to find any responsible Social Credit leader who has the courage to admit either that he was in the convention hall when the resolution was passed or that his party should offer the civil servants a full apology and retraction.'"

He concluded: "To me it appears all too typical of the incompetence and immaturity of the party in power."

BETWEEN TIMES

By MONTE ROBERTS

Social and personal note. There will be no Halloween party at our house tonight, due to a conversation which took place LAST night.

Do you think we should have a Halloween party? I asked My Favorite Wife.

"Goodness, do you think it would be safe?" she asked in return.

Why, of course, I said, we could have a safe and sane Halloween party with no trouble at all.

"Well, that would be something different," MFW said. "I mean, a party with no trouble at all... and safe and sane, too. You DID say safe and sane, didn't you?"

Certainly, I said, a safe and sane Halloween party, that's what I'm suggesting.

MFW got up from her chair, and went to the windows, and pulled down the blinds. Then she went to the front door, and looked it. Then she went to the back door, and made sure it was locked, too. Then she went to the fireplace, and attempted to peer up the chimney.

What on earth are you doing? I asked her.

"Shhhhh!" admonished My Favorite Wife. "The walls have ears, you know."

Corn has ears too, I said. And this is corn, that's for sure, I said.

"It is not," said MFW. "If we are going to discuss a Halloween party, we must be sure we are alone, and that no person is listening in. Are you certain," she added, "that the telephone hasn't been tapped?"

By this time, I was somewhat bewildered. Look, I said, all I asked was, do you think we should have a Halloween party?

"Shhhhh!" MFW shushed me. "Keep your voice down. Of course, I agree a Halloween party would be fine. But don't you realize, you are living in B.C.?"

What has that to do with it? I asked.

"In B.C.," MFW explained "there can't be a Halloween party. The only party allowed in B.C.," she said, "is the Social Credit party."

DROODLES

This special Halloween Doodle shows that although witches work only this one night a year (except for occasional appearances in "Macbeth") they have to start their training early. When they're little their mothers are always encouraging them to be bad instead of good. A witch's mother will say, "Myrtle was so cute today. She wouldn't eat her cereal, she stuck pins in grandma's hair and she set the house on fire. And she's only four!" Besides Broomsmanship they also have to study Spell Casting and Kettle Stirring if they want to get ahead in the Witch Game. (I finally found out what witches are up to when they sit around stirring those big kettles—they're dyeing cats black.) But the toughest part of the business is shaping their heads to fit those hats.

VICTORIA, B.C., SATURDAY, OCTOBER 30, 1954 17

Machine Tax Opposed By B.C. Chamber

A Victoria Chamber of Commerce resolution opposing the B.C. government's machinery tax was passed unanimously by the annual convention of Chambers of Commerce of B.C. in Vancouver today.

It was the only resolution presented by the Victoria group and was discussed for 30 minutes.

The resolution said the machinery tax discriminated against businesses which must use machinery, while businesses which don't need machinery escape.

"Possession of machinery does not necessarily indicate the amount of business done," the resolution stated. "It is a most unfair and arbitrary base" for taxation.

Eighty-two delegates from 34 communities are attending the convention.

Improved Weather Halts Layoffs; Employment Rises

Improved weather was given credit today for halting layoffs in the construction industry, and reversing the seasonal trend toward rising unemployment.

C. A. Mudge, National Employment Office manager, said a larger number of men obtaining work in the past week more than offset the rising number of unemployed in the women's section.

A steady stream of jobs in many classifications reached the men's section, Mr. Mudge said, and all were filled except those requiring plasterers.

The women's section shows a demand for domestic workers, although waitresses are required for shift work. Jobs in manufacturing and service companies, and those for unskilled workers, are scarce, he said.

WAGE PARITY WITH VANCOUVER AIM OF CITY TEACHERS

Move Scored by Trustee Group's Head Who Says Pay High Enough

Greater Victoria teachers are expected to ask for wage parity with Vancouver when they meet the local school board to begin negotiations shortly.

The teachers have already served notice on Greater Victoria School Board they wish the present salary schedule revised.

Adoption of the Vancouver wage scale here, according to available information, would have no effect on certain teacher categories already at a comparable level but would mean as much as $500 a year for others.

Generally speaking, the Vancouver schedule is the highest in the province.

Teachers, however, face strong resistance from the school board which is pledged to the B.C. School Trustee Association's hold-the-line policy.

Richard H. Reeve, president of the B.C. School Trustee Association, who has said teacher salaries throughout B.C. are high enough, is a member of the local board.

Speaking as president of B.C. trustees, Mr. Reeve said today the association's advisory committee was "disappointed that teachers are continuing to make annual drives for further increases in apparent disregard of existing conditions."

Keeping expenses at their present level, he said, was particularly important this year since the government is in the process of revamping the whole system of educational finance.

"It is only consistent with common sense to hold the line until we see what effect this new financing will have," he said.

Local teachers, who have not yet met the school board to begin direct negotiations, have not commented on the resistance policy advocated by the Trustee Association.

The matter might be raised next Saturday, however, when teachers from all parts of Vancouver Island gather for a sectional meeting of the B.C. Teachers' Federation.

3 Threaten To Toss Man From Bridge

Three sailors who threatened to throw a Victoria man from the Johnson Street Bridge if he did not give them his money, today were the objects of an active police investigation.

David Ekstrom, 502 Fraser Street, victim of the attack, said he was accosted by the sailors as he was crossing the bridge at 12:30 this morning.

They pushed him against the bridge railing and took $3 and his watch, he said, but he attempted to break away from them and in the scuffle recovered his watch.

The three men then fled in the direction of the city, Ekstrom told police. He could not see their faces, but said two of the three spoke French.

Chief Suspends Juvenile Head Pending Probe

Juvenile officer of the city police department, Arthur Rudge, has been suspended, it was confirmed today by Police Chief John Blackstock.

Reason for the suspension was not given.

The police chief said it has nothing to do with a recent controversy instigated by Alderman Frank Mulliner over handling of juvenile court cases.

He said the suspension will stand "until a certain matter has been looked into" by the police commission.

It will not be dealt with by the commission until Commissioner William Hamilton is released from hospital, where he underwent an operation recently, and is well enough to resume his official duties.

Mr. Rudge's resignation as secretary of the Greater Victoria Juvenile Foster Home has been accepted.

His work as juvenile officer has been taken over by Constable Lyle Somers.

Headmaster Claims 'No Discrimination'

Shawnigan Lake School headmaster G. Peter Kaye today made public the text of a letter which the school had hoped would resolve the now famous Hewitt affair.

It was intended to pave the way for the return to Shawnigan of Mrs. Dorothy Hewitt, the so-called "banished bride."

Instead of reconciliation, however, the letter has widened the breach between Mrs. Hewitt and the school and has prompted John Hewitt to quit his job there.

Mr. Kaye expressed regret and surprise at the outcome.

He said that when Mr. Hewitt left for Jamaica last week to discuss the matter with his wife, he had been in accord with what was in the letter, and had indicated he felt it would be acceptable to his wife as well.

According to a Reuters dispatch from Kingston, however, Mrs. Hewitt took strong exception to certain parts of the letter, claiming it called on her to declare to "falsehoods."

It was intended that the letter would be signed by Mr. Kaye on behalf of the school, and by Mr. and Mrs. Hewitt as a public statement "to clear up the situation."

Complete Text of 'Clear Up' Letter

"It is agreed that Mrs. Hewitt left Shawnigan Lake School in the mistaken impression that she could not remain there because she was colored." The headmaster deeply regrets any remarks which created that impression. Had he been advised of her marriage on September 7th it could have been possible to clear up this misunderstanding and avoid Mrs. Hewitt's departure from the school.

"It is acknowledged by all parties that there is no racial discrimination at Shawnigan Lake School.

"Nevertheless, it is recognized that the headmaster declined to take part in the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Hewitt on September 1 because, in his opinion, it could give rise to controversy in many Canadian communities. It is accepted that holding such a view he had a right and a duty to follow that course, which he intimated to Mr. Hewitt at the first opportunity. Moreover, the sincerity of the headmaster in advising that the wedding be postponed is not questioned in the circumstances which were familiar to him.

"It is now appreciated that the various remarks and actions attributed to the school authorities throughout this unfortunate dispute were ill-considered and inaccurate. The harm done thereby to the reputation and honor of the school and all for which it stands is sincerely regretted.

"Mrs. Hewitt acknowledges the fact that she is free to return to Shawnigan Lake School without expense to herself and that she will be given an opportunity to fill her rightful place as the wife of a master at the school.

'A Stupid Proposal' Says Mrs. Hewitt

The Reuters dispatch quoted Mrs. Hewitt as having referred to the peace paper as "a stupid proposal."

"I am now asked to sign a statement which makes my return conditional and dependent on my declaring to falsehoods at the cost of my honor and reputation as well as that of my husband," she told the news service.

"Such an impossible condition caused my husband to realize that nothing further could be done by us in the matter and he has therefore confirmed his resignation from the school."

The dispatch said she had been prepared to return to the school if authorities had issued an apology for the treatment she received, but after the letter was determined never to go there again.

Mrs. Hewitt, 21, who quit her job in a Kingston bank to come to Shawnigan and marry Hewitt, left four days after the wedding.

She went back to the home of her father, N. B. Holtz, Jamaica's accountant-general, and conceded she had been told to leave because of her color. The allegation set off an international incident, despite a denial from the school.

Mr. and Mrs. Hewitt intend to return to British Columbia next Tuesday but intend to settle in or near Vancouver.

Mr. Hewitt, according to Reuters, believes he can find work there and is intent on "making a success of our marriage which started off so unhappily."

more than a dozen Legion of Frontiersmen to give the city its biggest blanket of police protection in Halloween history.

"We will have a flying squad at the police station ready to speed to any trouble spot. Anyone who hears what he believes is an extra loud explosion should telephone us and we'll get men out right away," said Chief Blackstock.

The chief said that the police did not wish to spoil the kids' fun "but when it comes to doing property damage we are going to arrest everyone we catch." He emphasized that it was a criminal offense to make home-made bombs.

In regard to the bombs uncovered Friday, Chief Blackstock said they would be extremely dangerous to people standing nearby when set off. "Early this morning police picked up a wallet lost by a 17-year-old boy. It contained four formulas to make various-type bombs and flashers."

The wallet contained the boy's name and he came to the station when called. Chief Blackstock said the youth was a high school student and had jotted the formulas down so that he would not forget them. He said he had never even attempted to make a bomb and that Saanich police had checked him just three days ago on the same point. He was allowed to go.

Police urge parents to check their children and if they possess the lethal bombs to take them away from them. They also warn youngsters that use of the bombs could mean serious injury or death to themselves and playmates.

ASK The TIMES

Q.—1. Who was the immediate predecessor of the present Minister of Defense? 2. On what date was the price of gold raised from $20 an ounce to $35 an ounce? T.F.D.

A. 1. Hon. Ralph O. Campney took office as Minister of National Defence in August this year, succeeding in that post Hon. Brooke Claxton, who had held the portfolio since Dec. 12, 1946. Mr. Campney sits in the House of Commons for Vancouver Centre. Mr. Claxton sat for the St. Lawrence-St. George Division of Montreal, 2 Feb. 1, 1934. That Canadians were interested in all moves to better the then economic conditions was indicated by an 8-column banner line on the Daily Times' front page next day: "U.S. Monetary Policy Will Benefit Canada."

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask The Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

CRESTING GONE—An architectural feature of St. John's Anglican Church which has been familiar to Victorians since the sacred edifice was erected 42 years ago has disappeared. The terra cotta cresting on the roof, put there in 1912 as designed by architect W. Ridgway Wilson, has just been removed and, as on the roof of Christ Church Cathedral, the ridge henceforth will remain bare. This change in the appearance of the well-known landmark is the result of the passage of time and weather erosion. A violent wind some months ago dislodged sections of the cresting and they rolled down the roof, shattering a number of sheets of slate.

OFFICIAL OPENING SUNDAY

St. Michael, All Angels Completes $15,000 Job

St. Michael and All Angels' Church, Royal Oak, "the church on the hill," has had the first alteration made in its 71-year history. The work was begun in July, and the official opening of the new addition will be held on Sunday, with services at 8 and 11 a.m.

The preacher will be the Venerable A. E. Nunn. The congregation has increased to such an extent in recent years that the church has had to be enlarged. This was achieved by building a gallery in the west end, made possible because of the great height of the ceiling. Underneath the gallery is a large choir room and a baptistry, which is separated from the body of the church by an open screen. A new organ loft and a vestry have been built on the north side of the church. The architect was Mr. P. Birley, and the contractor Fowler and Sons. A new oil furnace has also been installed.

When the church was built in 1883 it stood on the same level as the West Saanich Road, but various attempts to reduce the grade of the road have left the church sitting about 20 feet above the highway, accessible only by a flight of stairs. A new road to the church has been constructed, and it is now possible for the first time in many years to drive to the main entrance, which has been placed at the west end.

To motorists driving to Victoria the church presents the same aspect that it always did, because the large west window and the spire have simply been moved forward to new positions. It is interesting to note that the old spire has been rebuilt at considerable expense, covered with aluminum sheeting, and once more dominates the scene. St. Michael's would not seem to be the same without its unique spire. In redecorating the interior an old stenciled pattern was detected high on the walls, obviously dating from the foundation of the church. This has been renewed and is most attractive.

The total cost of the project is about $15,000, of which the congregation has raised $11,000 since 1953, under the chairmanship of the Rector's Warden, Mr. W. H. Colley, and the People's Warden, Mr. J. Barber Starkey.

The Church Page

By LANCE H. WHITTAKER

A number of readers of the Church Page have phoned and written to comment on the premier's use of a quotation from St. Paul as a belated reply to Dr. Geoffrey Fisher's query about the meaning of Social Credit.

The comments, as might be expected, were uniform in condemning what at best must be described as a thoughtless rejoinder, conceived in the worst possible taste.

In all charity, it may be granted that the quotation was given offhand, intended to lighten an otherwise serious address, but we expect something better from the head of the government of this province.

The Church Page in the past has supported members of the government who speak Christian approach to politics, but Premier Bennett's faux pas, committed—as such things often are—with the best of intentions, is evidence that the head of our government is oddly insensitive to the veneration in which most of his people hold Holy Scripture.

It was an unfortunate incident. Many will find it unforgivable.

Queen's Avenue Choir Recorded

A long-play record featuring the choir of Queen's Avenue United Church in New Westminster, one of the oldest Protestant churches west of the Great Lakes, will be released throughout Canada this fall for the Christmas season.

The record, entitled "Christmas Echoes," includes six Bach chorales on one side and six short Christmas selections sung a capella on the other. It is released under the Aragon label, by London Recordings.

The choir of this 95-year-old church is under the direction of Leslie W. Monk. Mr. Monk, who conducted choirs in Regina, Toronto, Ottawa and Digby, N.S., before coming to the West Coast, is starting his eighth season as leader of the Queen's Avenue Church Choir. Also director of the B.C. Electric Ladies' Choir and the CBC "Fireside Singers," Mr. Monk's choirs have never been defeated in festivals across the Dominion.

The 75-member Queen's Avenue Church Choir has received national recognition through numerous appearances on the CBC Network, a program on the National Broadcasting Company and festival awards. The group has also appeared with the Vancouver Symphony Orchestra. Organist is Betty Hopkins Mercer, ARCT.

Membership is similar to most church choirs and ranges from a doctor to housewives and includes a contractor, painter, electrician, several teachers, clerks, nurses, and stenographers. There are 15 basses, 12 tenors, 18 contraltos and 30 sopranos. Church minister is Rev. W. Evan Fullerton, B.A., STM, who came to New Westminster a year ago from Sparta, N.J. He succeeded Dr. W. B. Williams, who had ministered at Queen's Avenue since 1934.

The group is scheduled to appear on a coast-to-coast CBC broadcast on November 22.

New Altar Frontal for St. John's

The Rev. Canon George Biddle will dedicate a new altar frontal at St. John's Anglican Church Sunday. The frontal is made from the blue and gold brocade which graced Westminster Abbey for the Coronation. The frontal, with antependiums for pulpit and lectern, were given by Mr. and Mrs. R. H. B. Ker.

An hour-long film made during the Billy Graham evangelism meeting in London will be shown at Alliance Tabernacle, 1039 Yates, at 7:45 p.m. Thursday.

Entitled "London Crusade," the film is produced by the Billy Graham organization, and has sequences showing packed Harringay arena, outdoor gatherings in Trafalgar Square and Hyde Park, the 3,000-voice choir, and Wembley stadium jammed by 120,000 in the final rally.

Graham's British visit, which began under a cloud when an unfriendly reception was indicated, turned out to be a great triumph for the young evangelist. He has indicated that he will return to Britain for another series of meetings soon.

Only women on the Vancouver Island Teachers' Convention planning committee are Miss Olive Heritage, Miss Bea Sutton, Miss Joyce Applegate and Miss Jean Irvine. Miss Heritage, girls' counsellor in Grades 7, 8 and 9 at Central Junior High School is in charge of the junior-senior high school subject section and is making selections for the various workshops; Miss Sutton, commercial teacher at Victoria High School is assisting Miss Heritage; Miss Applegate, primary teacher at Monterey School, is in charge of hospitality and accommodation for out-of-town teachers and Miss Irvine, home economic teacher at Lansdowne Junior High, is planning the various meals, the catering for which is being done by various church women's groups.

The first week in November will see more than 1,500 teachers gathering in Victoria for the annual Vancouver Island Teachers' Convention, November 4 and 5. To mark Canadian Book Week the Victoria Branch of the Canadian Authors' Association is presenting works by Canadian authors and poets to various organizations in the city. Above, Mrs. C. H. Maunsell, past president of the local branch presents books to Miss Deanna Mills (in chair) and Mrs. E. Mousseau, right, patients at Vernon TB Villa, while Nurse W. Fitton, smiles her approval.

The League for the Handicapped was included in the generous gesture of the Victoria authors group when Mrs. Rosalie Heywood, Mrs. Mary Carr-Wright and Miss Dorothy Mitchell visited Mr. Fred Blakeney, league president, to offer a selection of books by Canadian authors and poets. The league, recently formed, is actively interested in all handicapped persons who wish to find help and encouragement through group meetings and workshops.

Mrs. Ernest C. Carson, past-president and founder of the Victoria Branch of the Canadian Arthritic and Rheumatism Society was visited in her Mount Joy home by Mrs. Milwyn Adams Davies, a member of the Victoria authors group. Mrs. Davies presented Mrs. Carson with a number of books by Canadian authors to be enjoyed by members of the arthritic society in the city.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Plastic to Line Lunch Box New and Sanitary

By PENNY SAVER

Now here's an excellent idea! You can make your husband's lunch box much more sanitary and attractive, by lining it with white plastic compartment . . . made to fit the standard metal lunch box. The lunch box liner keeps food free from rust, rancid odors and flavors, making his noontime break just that much more pleasant.

It's roomy, leaving plenty of room in the larger section for sandwiches, meats and fruits, then in one corner there is a smaller section with a little lid, for putting cakes, or anything that might crush easily.

A metal lunch box will last twice as long, if you keep it lined with this plastic box, for it won't rust nearly as soon. Use the lunch box liner also for storing foods in the refrigerator. Price is $1.49.

I believe it's worth its 98-cent price tag.

Another handy kitchen item is the "perfect" bottle cap! The simple, push-pull action is fully guaranteed to lock the carbonation in your soft drinks . . . the fizz just can't leak out. It would be a good thing to pay 39 cents for one of these bottle caps and save otherwise wasted soda drinks.

Now, a gift for that personal shower to which you're invited. May I suggest a boxful of almond soap. Besides being fragrant lovely and gentle to the skin, this soap is attractive to look at.

Lift the lid of the smart box and you'll see three huge, blanching almonds . . . in other words, the soap. Two tiny gold leaves have been attached to each cake of soap, to make them even more attractive. Price for the set of three is $2.25.

One I saw today is so attractive and looks as if it would be a snap to clean. "Almost unbreakable" the sticker said, so

In Step With Style

By KITTY DIXON

Felt! That's a big word these days.

By now, most girls own a felt skirt and are thinking seriously of complementing it by adding felt accessories, because felt is still zooming in popularity.

There are many reasons. Besides being a crisp fabric that lends itself easily to full skirts, felt is warm and practical. Felt fabric is made in attractively vivid colors yet with all these attributes, is wonderfully easy to sew.

Anything made of felt can be whipped up in a jiffy, because felt needs no hemming whatsoever. Make a skirt or jacket of one color and sew on appliques in bright contrasting colors. It's all done so quickly and with such happy results.

This pretty suspender skirt of felt is the answer to any teenager's wardrobe problems, for school or party wear.

To set off your shirtwaist blouse and sweater collection, try making a "suspender and buckle" circle skirt. Using a basic skirt pattern, you'll find it'll take you about an hour and a half to make the skirt. The suspenders can be cut in a matter of minutes. But it's the individual touches you'll add after cutting the suspenders that will make your skirt a conversation piece.

Black braid sewn along the edge of the suspenders will set off any color (blue, cocoa, grey, red) nicely. Next, dot the suspenders with large and small sparkling jet buttons. Add four jet buckles and your wardrobe pet is complete. Remove the suspenders, add another petticoat, and you've a new, graceful party skirt for a dressy velveteen blouse.

Another simple sewing task is that of making a weskit. In just 45 minutes you can have a different looking weskit to

United States Honeymoon For Couple Recently Wed

A lovely gown of pink champagne lace and nylon tulle over satin was worn by Phyllis Ruth Torrie Hall, RN, for her recent marriage to Edward Jean Baptiste Barbin in Alliance Tabernacle. Rev. C. Alton performed the candle-light service for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Edward Hall, 2931 Quadra Street, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. G. Barbin, 127 Rue Ste. Anne, St. Anne de Bellevue, P.Q.

The tabernacle was decorated with baskets of mauve and white chrysanthemums, and candles were lit by Rikki Hall, brother of the bride, and Jess Mansley. Miss Joye Martens presided at the organ and Miss Clara Mary Chapman at the piano. Ron Hall, another brother, sang "Where E'er You Walk."

Fashioned with a bodice of lace featuring a wide V neckline, both front and back, embroidery or iridescent sequins and sleeves ending in petal points over the hands, the bridal gown had a bouffant skirt worn over hoops and a crinoline and embellished with godets of pleated tulle appliqued with lace. The full godet at centre back swept into an aisle train.

Her fingertip veil of pink illusion net misted from a coronet of seed and iridescent pearls and her bouquet was a cascade of red roses and gardenia leaves. She wore a family hairloom pearl sunburst as her only ornament.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Peter Hamilton, who wore blue lace tulle over blue taffeta. Little Miss Carolyn Grace Heal as junior bridesmaid, was dressed in pink nylon taffeta with nylon net overskirt. James Takaoka of Calgary was the groom's best man and ushers were Stanley North and James Clark.

At a reception in the Business and Professional Women's Club, guests were entertained with musical selections by Ron Hall, Miss Martens and Bernie Ryall at the organ.

TEEN-PROOF THAT YOU'RE GROWING UP

TEEN ETIQUETTE

KITTE TURMEL

"How can I get my Mom to quit treating me like a little kid?" Johnny asks. "When can you convince parents that you are old enough to drive a car, date, or go steady?" teen-agers want to know. "Why can't grown-ups see that you are growing up?"

"Why don't you act your age, skip the kid-tricks, to prove you can be trusted with more freedom?" some parents snap back. That's the bugle-bare for many a family battle.

Let's roll up the sleeves, to wrestle with this age-old problem.

AT ANY TEEN AGE YOU ARE BEGINNING TO SHOW MARKS OF MATURITY:

If you are reliable. Your word is your guarantee. You keep promises. You follow through on whatever you say you'll do. You're there, at agreed time, set place.

Examples: You are home at mealtime, or by deadline after game, party, movie. You're ready if friend calls for you, or at going-out-time with the family.

When something sudden upsets plan, you notify the one waiting soon as can. You find a way to rush the message. If family's away, when you call, or phone is out of order, you ask a neighbor to relay or leave note on door.

If you are responsible. You fulfill any task assigned that you accept. If you can't, you say so, right then.

Examples: You go beyond duty to assume more responsibility around home. You take the initiative. You are your own "alarm clock" on when things must be done. You do chores, homework, no need for nags. You remember to put clothes in hamper on laundry or cleaning pickup day. You don't forget the one thing you went to the market to buy that's needed for dinner. You mail the important letter en route out.

You take over on upkeep of car, even before you are allowed to drive. You clear out the clutter after an outing. You wash, polish car if Dad wants this done by you at home.

As driver, you bring car back in good shape for next user. You're not the "dim-brain" who returns family car with gas at zero, soft tire or no spare. You check oil, brakes, motor-hums. You report anything out of line or the smallest of accidents.

Also, you're really growing up: "If you are tolerant. You discover no two think, do, exactly alike. You assume there might be more than one right answer to any question. You make allowance for ideas—to each his own."

Victoria Toastmistress Club members taking part were Mrs. L. Ackerman, Mrs. Rush, Mrs. E. Mair, Mrs. V. Patterson, Mrs. Misner and Mrs. M. Hemming. Miss F. Scovill gave the vote of thanks and Mrs. D. Brandon was timer.

Victoria Toastmistress Club members taking part were Mrs. Dunnet, Mrs. N. Mickelson, who gave speeches; Mrs. Irene Warren, Miss Helen Egan and Miss M. Cottingham acted as critics. Miss P. L'Amie was lexicologist and Mrs. Thompson the evaluator.

Wed at Oak Bay United

White chrysanthemums in tall baskets and arrangements of the same flowers on the communion table and marking guest pews, adorned Oak Bay United Church Friday night, for the wedding of Anne Louise, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Love, 2726 Blackwood Avenue, and Peter Derek Fowles, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Fowles, 499 St. Charles Street.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. W. W. McPherson and organ music was played by Mrs. Vera Barclay. Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore her white satin, the strapless bodice covered with chantilly lace, the full over-skirt of net clouding to floor-length from the tiny waist.

A bolero jacket of the lace covered satin featured long pointed sleeves and an Elizabethan collar. For something borrowed the bride wore her sister's finger-tip length, silk embroidered veil, caught to her head with a bandeau of pearlized orange blossoms. Her spray bouquet was of pink rapture roses and stephanotis.

Miss Donna Sparks was maid of honor, wearing a full skirted ballerina dress of dark green iridescent taffeta, a low necked, tight bodice emphasizing the skirt's fullness. Her headdress and gloves were of matching material and she carried white carnations and rose pink chrysanthemums.

Miss Shirley Saggars and Miss Patricia Westwood attended as bridesmaids, wearing identical dresses of lime-green iridescent taffeta, similarly styled as the maid of honor's and matching accessories. They carried Kokomo yellow carnations and bronze chrysanthemums.

Attending the groom was Raymond Garside, and Garry Pynn and Richard Willis were ushers.

A reception at Oak Bay Beach Hotel followed the service, where Mrs. Love, in a queen's rose crepe and lace dress over rose satin, with black accessories and a corsage of Johanna Hill rosebuds, assisted in receiving with Mrs. Fowles, in a striking smoke blue wood-lace over champagne taffeta, with blue champagne accessories and corsage of tawny gold rosebuds.

A hand-made white lace cloth covered the refreshment table, which was centred with a three-tier all-white cake, topped with pink roses on a silver stand embedded in flower-sprinkled white tulle. Tall white candles burnt in silver holders. D. W. Hughes, uncle of the bride, proposed a toast.

Departing to spend a honeymoon Up-Island and on the Mainland, Mrs. Fowles donned a navy blue wool gabardine suit, topping it with a winter-white shortie coat and selecting red accessories for accent. The young couple will make their home in Victoria.

Jacqueline Jorre de St. Jorre Wed In Nuptial Mass at St. Andrew's

Nuptial mass was celebrated this morning at 11 at St. Andrew's Cathedral, when Father M. O'Connell united in bonds of holy matrimony, Jacqueline Berthe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edmond Jorre de St. Jorre, 1630 Pinewood Avenue, and Walter Glenn Jansen, son of Mr. Walter Jansen of Field, B.C., and the late Mrs. Jansen, in marriage.

During the ceremony Miss Madonna McCabe sang "Panis Angelicus" and Gounod's "Ave Maria." White chrysanthemums adorned the high altar and guest pews were marked with clusters of white flowers. Mr. de St. Jorre gave his daughter in marriage.

Pale ivory lame brocaded in silver in a plume design fashioned the bodice of the gown worn by the vivid brunette bride. Rare old Bourges lace outlined the neckline and the bouffant skirt of filmy ivory tulle over taffeta, billowed into a long cathedral train. Her heirloom cap and silk illusion net veil had been worn by her sister at her recent marriage.

White rosebuds composed her posy style bouquet and her jewelry was a filigree diamond pendant which had been a wedding gift from her father to her mother, and matching diamond drop earrings, a gift from the groom.

This strictly formal affair is being organized under the general chairmanship of Sgt. Stan Holmes, with Chief John Blackstock as honorary chairman. Identical gowns of brilliant frosty hunter's pink cordine taffeta were worn by attendants. Gowned in silver grey lace with black accessories and corsage of deep pink rosebuds, Mrs. Jorre de St. Jorre assisted the young couple in receiving guests at a reception at the bride's parents' home, where decorations were carried out in similar color theme to the wedding party, with masses of white chrysanthemums and brilliant autumn leaves.

NEW PLAN DEVELOPED TO REMOVE RIPPLE ROCK

NORTH VANCOUVER (CP)—Fisheries Minister James Sinclair said here Friday an engineering report in the hands of the federal cabinet has proven the feasibility of removing Ripple Rock, the navigation menace in Seymour Narrows.

Under the plan the rock would be blasted from a series of tunnels fanning out from a main shaft. A concrete casing would have to be constructed above tide level to permit the drilling of the main shaft.

The minister said the job would be very costly but "I am hopeful the cabinet will announce its decision within four weeks."

It was the third Vardon Trophy for Locke since 1946. His stroke average over 25 rounds was 71. Dal Rees of Wales was second after 29 rounds with 71.82 average and Harry Bradshaw of Ireland third after 25 rounds with an average of 72.72.

N.S. Bricklayer Sentenced to Die For Killing Girl

PICTOU, N.S. (BUP)—James Swinamer, a 32-year-old New Glasgow, N.S., bricklayer, was sentenced today to be hanged Jan. 11 for the murder of Harriet Skaling last month.

Swinamer was calm and stony-faced when Mr. Justice E. T. Parker imposed the death sentence, which will be carried out in the Pictou county jail. It will be the first hanging in the jail in more than 30 years.

Defense lawyer A. M. Macintosh of New Glasgow said he would appeal the conviction and sentence on the grounds the Crown produced only circumstantial evidence. Swinamer was found guilty Wednesday of killing Miss Skaling last Sept. 12. They were living together in a house on the outskirts of New Glasgow.

Canadian Gridders To Play in Hawaii

OTTAWA (CP)—Ottawa Rough Rider quarterback Al Dekdebrun has confirmed that plans are under way for a select Canadian football team to play two post-season games in Hawaii in December.

He said arrangements are being made for 28 to 30 Canadian players to fly to Hawaii to meet a professional club there in the Hula Bowl. Two games, on Dec. 17 and Christmas Day, were being planned.

GETTING READY

TORONTO (BUP)—The civic sports committee will recommend that Maple Leaf Stadium's seating capacity be increased from 17,500 to 40,000 in a move to bring major league baseball to Toronto.

Nearly 15,000,000 tons of steel was used by the U.S. auto industry in 1953.

NOISELESS BAT

What's This? Ping Pong Loses 'Ping'

LONDON (CP)—The Japanese have taken the ping out of ping-pong, but British table tennis players haven't yet fallen silently into line.

In the English open championships this year the Japanese team introduced a bat with sponge facing that cut the game's sound effects by half. They also walked off with top team placing and the men's singles crown.

Table tennis fans say the "pingless" game lacks spectator appeal. For this reason, not many British players are likely to adopt the noiseless bat.

Ping-pong, or table tennis as the addicts prefer to call it, is a big sport in Britain. The English Table Tennis Association controls about 8,000 clubs in England alone and has 150,000 members. Leagues exist all over Britain.

But table tennis is less a sport than an entertainment to most Britons. Youth clubs, seaside boarding houses, private homes and factory canteens usually have a table if there's room.

As a spectator sport, too, the game seems popular. The finals night of the April championships had a capacity house of 8,000 in Wembley's indoor

Arson Suspected In $5,000 Fire At RC Church

VANCOUVER (CP)—Arson was suspected today in a fire which caused $5,000 damage to the St. Jude's Roman Catholic Church during the early morning hours.

Father Hugh J. MacIsaac said he found an empty kerosene can in a dugout under the building.

"We certainly have never kept kerosene there," he said.

The seven-year-old church was built at a cost of $20,000, and is heated by hot water from the rectory next door, ruling out the possibility of faulty heating equipment.

City firemen were slowed by the thick fog in the district, the east end of the city.

Pond-Scum May End Hunger, Bring Millenium to World

By FRANK CAREY

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Basic Research Corp. today announced a new and faster laboratory process for growing algae and said the development holds promise of alleviating world food shortages.

Algae are tiny, protein-rich plants which grow naturally among other ways as a scum-like formation on ponds. Scientists long have been experimenting with ways of culturing them rapidly for possible use as foodstuffs for animals and poultry.

The Basic Research Corp. describes itself as a non-profit organization "organized and operated exclusively for scientific and educational purposes in the public interest." It said it has applied for patents on the new algae-growing process and is "negotiating with leading industries for its commercial development."

The corporation said the new process has produced laboratory quantities of algae more than 10 times faster than any previous cultivation methods.

Under commercial development, the corporation said, the process could yield algae "in abundance at very low cost." Feeds could be "enriched in protein content and lowered in price by the addition of algae in combination with hay, cottonseed, soybeans and corn."

"This... should relieve much of the world hunger which is the principal cause of unrest, misery and war."

What's news at Inco?

Soon... iron from a nickel mine

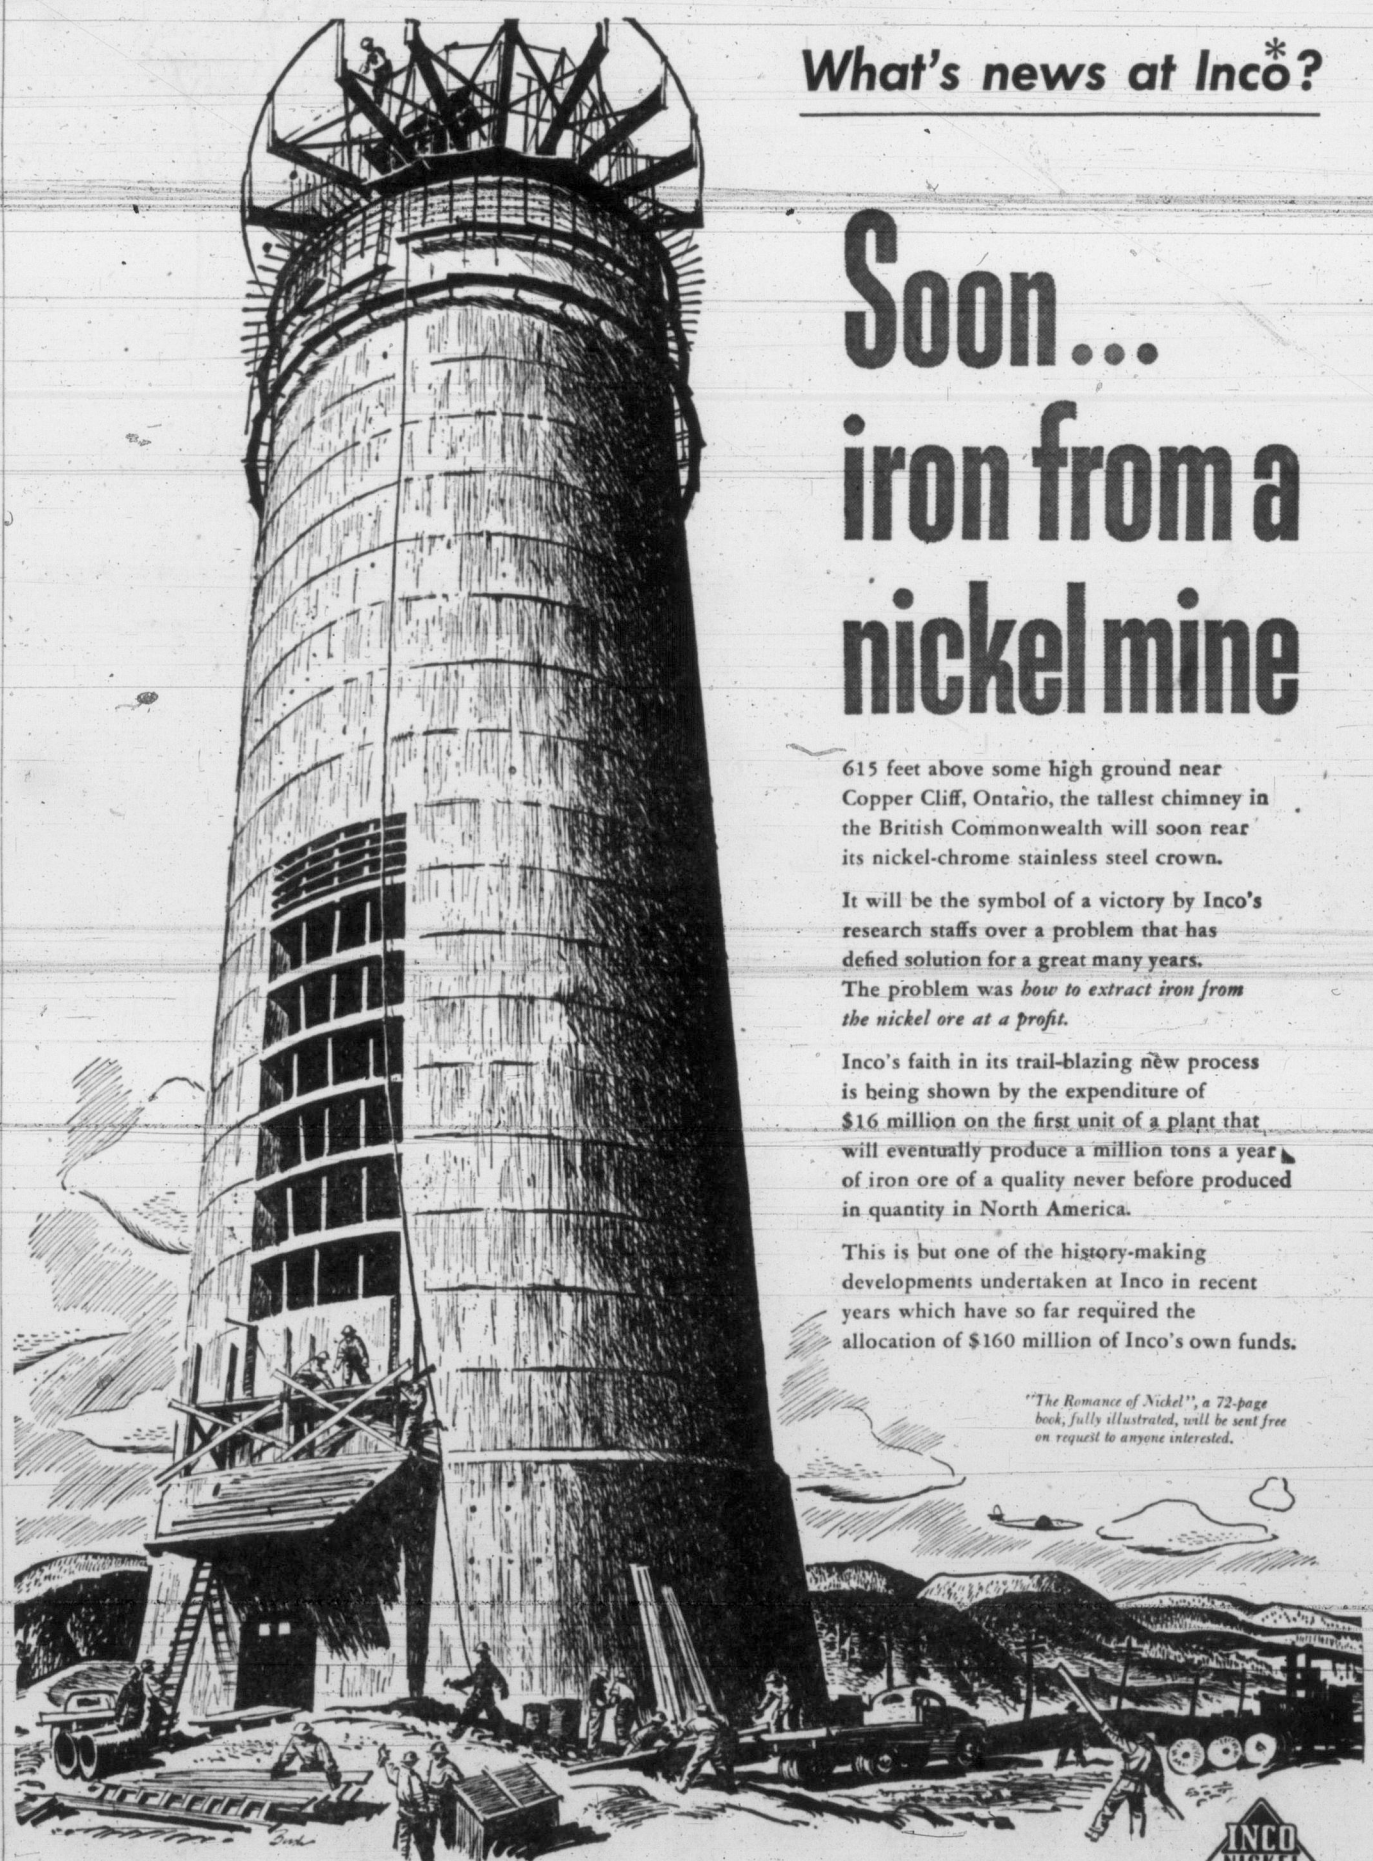

615 feet above some high ground near Copper Cliff, Ontario, the tallest chimney in the British Commonwealth will soon rear its nickel-chrome stainless steel crown.

It will be the symbol of a victory by Inco's research staffs over a problem that has defied solution for a great many years. The problem was how to extract iron from the nickel ore at a profit.

Inco's faith in its trail-blazing new process is being shown by the expenditure of $16 million on the first unit of a plant that will eventually produce a million tons a year of iron ore of a quality never before produced in quantity in North America.

This is but one of the history-making developments undertaken at Inco in recent years which have so far required the allocation of $160 million of Inco's own funds.

"The Romance of Nickel", a 72-page book, fully illustrated, will be sent free on request to anyone interested.

Missing 4-Year-Old Was Shot, Body Thrown in Sea, Police Say

NELSON VOTES $270,000 TOWARDS NEW HOSPITAL

NELSON, B.C. (CP)—Property owners here voted solidly for a $270,000 money by-law and their share of a new city district hospital Friday.

In one of the heaviest votes on record, 1,574 cast favorable ballots, while 89 voted against the measure. A total of 2,565 were eligible to vote.

The newly-formed Kootenay Valley Improvement District, made up of over 3,000 property owners, previously agreed to accept 55 per cent of the $600,000 required.

Provincial and Federal grants and financing will provide the remainder of the $1,800,000 needed for the 120-bed hospital. The site will be in a six-acre city park area.

POWELL RIVER, B.C. (CP)—A four-year-old Indian boy was shot and killed and his body thrown into the sea, police reported Friday.

The victim was Ernie Blaney, a member of the Slammon tribe, who disappeared from his parents' camp last Wednesday.

A suspect, police announced, is in custody. He is a man known by police to have been fire-testing a rifle about the time the boy disappeared.

The body has not been recovered and police are dragging the waters of Oakeover Arm, 12 miles west of here.

Police did not disclose how they learned the boy had been shot.

Marilyn Bell Turns Down Lombardo Show

TORONTO (BUP)—The advisers to swim star Marilyn Bell have turned down an offer of a spot in Guy Lombardo's Jones Beach show next summer.

Lombardo suggested the spot in his show as one which would not interfere with Miss Bell's plans to continue her studies. Her advisers, however, said they didn't want to commit her this far in advance in case other and more lucrative offers for next summer were received.

Hobgoblins Will 'Save the Children'

About 1,000 Victoria youngsters will forego the usual "Tricks or Treats" cry tonight when they venture forth to make Halloween collections for the Save the Children Fund. Cans have been distributed throughout the city by Mrs. W. W. McGill and children, instead of asking for treats, will be seeking donations to the fund. Above, Teddy and Estelle Lauritsen, 3941 Dawe Road, rehearse their part in the campaign, collecting a contribution from a neighbor, Mrs. H. W. Vondette, as baby Christopher looks on. Mrs. McGill is hoping tonight's effort will bring in about $1,000 for needy children.

Weatherman in Pact With Dinky Demons

Will Provide Thick Fog Over City Tonight To Shroud Halloween Pranks of Young Folks

Synthetic spectres and home-made hobgoblins will have suitable spooky weather in which to cavort this All Hallow's Eve.

The official weather forecast calls for more of the heavy fog which has been appearing in patches throughout the Greater Victoria area for the past few days.

Clear during the day, fog patches night and morning, is the prognosis.

Friday night's fog caused most inconvenience to airline travelers. Low visibility—or no visibility at all—at Pat Bay and Vancouver airports wiped out all flights Friday night and early this morning.

At 11 a.m., Trans-Canada Air Lines was back on normal schedule, but did not expect to maintain it in face of fog forecasts.

Fog-wise B.C. coast seamen kept passenger ships on schedule, and smaller craft out of trouble. B.C. Pilotage Authority was called on to transfer only one pilot in the thick of the fog, and did so with little difficulty.

Fog tonight will no doubt make the Halloween job more difficult for city police. But, in an effort to keep down street rowdiness and irresponsible pranks, at least five organized parties will be held, and dozens of private parties are planned.

Largest event of the night will be the annual party held by the Oak Bay Fire Department at 1703 Monterey. Firemen have built a huge bonfire which will be lit at 7 o'clock. Oak Bay Kiwanis are sponsoring a fancy-dress parade in connection with the party and the Home-towners will entertain in the fire hall. Prizes will be awarded for the best costumes.

Another smaller party will be held in Oak Bay at Quimper Park, Cadboro Bay Road, also beginning at 7 p.m.

Major party in the city will be the Bay Street Playground Committee's bonfire at Bay Street Park. Directed by Mrs. N. R. Harlan, the committee has arranged a fancy-dress contest and will distribute candies, apples and other treats to children. City manager Cecil Wyatt will judge costumes.

The group is expecting more than 250 youngsters and plans to supervise the use of fire works during the party, which begins at 7 p.m.

In Saanich, Shelbourne Street Fire Hall is staging a bonfire, also at 7, and will distribute candy, pop and hotdogs.

Esquimalt has no reported or organized group parties but numerous private ones will be held.

Private parties throughout the area are expected to take care of a large number of children. Permits have been issued for more than 50 fires by Greater Victoria fire departments.

An address by Queen Mother Elizabeth to the Columbia University bicentennial dinner in New York will be broadcast by the CBC over CBU at 7:30 p.m. Sunday.

Home-Made Bombs Worry Police Force

City and district police are taking extra precautions for Halloween tonight as the result of the discovery of home-made aluminum pipe "bombs" in one teenager's possession.

The "bombs" are composed of a crude gunpowder inserted in sections of pipe, lighted by a two-second fuse.

Although reports were published in the morning newspaper that hundreds of such bombs have been made and sold to youngsters, the police said they had no evidence that a large number of them were abroad.

Publication of scare headlines on the bombs failed to produce any other reports of the home-made bombs this morning.

"Whether there are others around or not, the finding of this one lot leaves us in a position where we have got to treat it as a serious possibility and take steps to guard against it," said Chief of Police John Blackstock. He noted that chemistry classes provided hundreds with the knowledge of how to make the bombs.

The chief has ordered the whole force on duty tonight. He will also have the services of (Continued on Page 17)

Second Girl Slain Near Pittsburgh

ALBUQUERQUE, Pa. (UP)—The knife-slashed body of a 16-year-old high school girl, missing since Monday, was found today under a pile of leaves and dirt on a hillside about 300 yards from her home.

The blood-smeared, battered body of Helen Jean Bryant was found as state police throughout western Pennsylvania searched for an apparent sex killer who throttled a six-year-old girl near Johnstown Thursday night, and a rapist who attacked a 12-year-old girl near Newcastle Friday night.

The two slayings and the rape occurred within a 60-mile radius of Pittsburgh.

Wolverhampton Moves to Top In Football

LONDON (Reuters)—Wolverhampton Wanderers, the English League soccer champions last season, went to the top of the first division today when they defeated Newcastle 3-2.

The Wolves raced into a 2-0 lead in the first 15 minutes, and although Newcastle played well, they could not match the craft and combination of their opponents.

Wolverhampton has 20 points the same record as Sunderland, but with a better goal average.

Sunderland, highest-paid club in England, kept in the championship running by whipping Arsenal in London 3-1. Inside forward Len Shackleton, now back in favor with the England selectors, made the opening for the first goal which laid the foundation of Sunderland's third successive victory on the High-ground.

Iran Prince's Plane Believed in U.S.S.R.

TEHRAN, Iran (Reuters)—Officials here consider it possible that Prince Ali Reza, who vanished Wednesday on a flight to Tehran, has made a forced landing behind the Soviet frontier.

A search for the missing prince, eldest brother and heir of the shah, resumed today in the rugged mountainous country between Tehran and Gorgan.

The prince left Gorgan Wednesday for a 200-mile flight to Tehran in a private four-seater plane.

Crippling Strike Ends in Britain

CHAIN LETTER IDEA IKE'S FINAL EFFORT

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower planned to telephone 10 of his friends today in a Republican "chain letter" plan designed to turn out a big vote in Tuesday's congressional elections.

He intended to urge them to cast their ballots Tuesday and to call 10 other friends to request them to do the same.

The president unveiled the idea Friday night at Wilmington, Del., in concluding a one-day, "propeller-stop" tour that took him to four key states where the outcome could determine continued Republican control of the Senate.

Vancouver Fog-Shrouded 4th Day in Row

VANCOUVER (CP)—A soupy, clinging layer of moist fog hung like a pall over B.C.'s lower mainland today causing three tugboats to run aground, slowing air and land traffic and providing a cover for hold-up men and purse-snatchers. It was the fourth successive foggy day.

The sun was expected to burn its way through the 400-foot layer of fog in patches during the day, but more fog was forecast for tonight.

All flights in and out of Vancouver International airport were grounded, but hope was held that some planes could be lifted during the afternoon.

The weatherman said the fog, described as "tenacious," will hang around all day "either as fog or a low deck cloud."

Few traffic accidents were reported as motorists apparently used extreme caution or left their cars at home.

BANDIT GUN MISFIRES
Hold-ups netted gunman—a total of more than $500. In one a young gunman aimed his gun at grocery store owner William Fitzmaurice and pulled the trigger three times. The gun misfired twice, but fired the third time as the proprietor ducked behind a counter.

The gunman fled without money. A shabby gunman with a bruised left eye held up the Personal Finance Company of Vancouver and forced the cashier to hand over $317. It was believed he is the same man who held up a west-end jeweler Thursday night.

Another armed thief held up a suburban shoe store as proprietor O. S. Scouler was closing the store Friday night.

He taped the wrists and mouths of Mr. Scouler and a clerk with adhesive tape, took $20 and fled.

Civil Servants Firmly Deny Inefficiency Slur

HAUCK denied the Socred accusation but said "so many of us are so damned confused we don't know what the government wants us to do."

"Take this mess at BISCO. No one can tell me it is the fault of four or five guys who have spent their lives trying to do a job."

Hauck's remark was loudly applauded.

"Isn't this attack a red herring, designed to cloud the issue, and deter us from our original purposes?" asked Bill Lowe, Escondido delegate. "We want arbitration rights, the five-day week, and more money. Let's not be deterred."

Emery Scott, Penticton, said "If we get all steamed up about this Socred resolution we will be playing right into their hands. That's what they want us to do."

Dennis Heinekey, Victoria, termed the "slur" a "small, petty, cheap attack by the Socred convention."

Other remarks ranged from "the most dastardly attack ever made on any civil servants," to a "cowardly slap in the face."

"Just because they are irresponsible, must we also be irresponsible?" asked one delegate.

The convention rejected unanimously a resolution from executive member George Horridge, which demanded the premier regulate the allegation, or refer the issue to the select standing legislative committee on public accounts for a full investigation.

The resolution demanded the committee be given the right to subpoena the mover and second of the Socred attack.

John Murrell, Chilliwack, said the failure of cabinet ministers to protest "such a blanket resolution" was disloyalty on the part of the employer. "The emphasis of any protest we might make should be placed on the failure of the government to

44,000 Dockers Return to Jobs

Piled-Up Ports Won't Be Clear Of Chaotic Congestion for Weeks

By JOHN DUDMAN

LONDON (Reuters)—Britain's crippling month-long dock strike, which cost the country millions, laid up 358 ships and kept 44,000 longshoremen idle, ended today.

Dock workers at key ports involved endorsed their leaders' proposals for a return to work Monday.

It was the largest dock stoppage since the general strike of 1926. Its spread to provincial ports held up imports and exports worth $550,000,000 and cut production in many factories.

The chaotic congestion of shipping and piled-up goods in the ports will take several weeks to clear. Effects of the stoppage will be felt from the factories to the shops for several months.

The end of the strike was signalled by a mass meeting of London dockers.

Before the London vote, sympathy strikers in Liverpool, Tilbury and Hull had decided to go back to work Monday. Birkhead and Rochester then gave their approval. Manchester and Garston followed, completing the list of eight ports affected in the country-wide walkout.

ONLY 10 OPPOSED
Strike leaders easily convinced their followers today that they had won enough concessions to justify a return to work. Only about 10 of the 5,000 dockers present at the mass meeting in London opposed the back-to-work call.

Main grievance in the strike has been the longshoremen's claim that overtime should be voluntary—not compulsory.

The strikers will return to work with an assurance that no one will be punished for refusing overtime. During negotiations overtime will be voluntary.

21 Airmen Found Dead In C-47 Wreck

WIESBADEN, Germany (AP)—The bodies of all 21 victims of a United States Air Force C-47 plane crash in France were found in the wreckage today by an American ground rescue team, air force headquarters here announced.

Maj. Rufus Hessberg, surgeon of the United States 12th air rescue group, led a search team to the crash scene high in the mountains north of Nice. The transport plane had been missing since Sunday.

Hessberg reported his team arrived at the site shortly after the wreckage was identified by the pilot of a navy helicopter. He said all 21 bodies were accounted for.

The wreckage was spotted Friday but not definitely identified as the missing plane until early today.

The C-47 disappeared on a flight from Rome to Lyon, France, Sunday afternoon. Its 15 passengers and six crew members were all American air force personnel from a base at Manston, England.

Named Chancellor
OTTAWA (BUP)—Dr. C. J. Mackenzie, president of the atomic energy control board, will be installed as chancellor of Carleton College at convocation ceremonies Nov. 23.

The government would like us to make an irresponsible statement, but I don't think we should do it."

The convention also decided to completely ignore a second resolution passed at the Socred convention asking full rights of taking an active role in politics for civil servants.

Their constitution does not prevent a member from being a member of any political party, but does prohibit them from "active participation."

Cruise Washed Out

Roy Bergo, shown leaving Edmonds, Wash., in his converted washtub for a 1,200-mile trip to Alaska, was forced to bail out at Whitty Island, 1,188 miles from his goal. The 50-year-old mariner told the coast guard his galvanized tub, equipped with a two-horsepower motor, developed mechanical trouble.

Th' Socreds' will likely be quiet though. They set off all their firecrackers at Vancouver a week ago.

A six-foot length of fuse had burned, police said, and ends of the two sticks were singed. The rear seat was partly burned.

Vancouver
Fog-Shrouded
4th Day in Row

VANCOUVER (CP)—The tug Palmar, from Bellingham, Wash., reported at noon today that she had sprung a leak and was taking water in the Gulf of Georgia, 20 miles west of here.

Tugboats raced through fog to the scene from Nanaimo and Vancouver.

VANCOUVER (CP)—A soupy, clinging layer of moist fog hung like a pall over B.C.'s lower mainland today causing three tugboats to run aground, slowing air and land traffic and providing a cover for hold-up men and purse-snatchers. It was the fourth successive foggy day.

The sun was expected to burn its way through the 400-foot layer of fog in patches during the day, but more fog was forecast for tonight.

Weatherman in Pact
With Dinky Demons

Synthetic spectres and home-made hobgoblins will have suitable spooky weather in which to cavort this All Hallows' Eve.

The official weather forecast calls for more of the heavy fog which has been appearing in patches throughout the Greater Victoria area for the past few days.

Clear during the day, fog patches night and morning, is the prognosis.

Friday night's fog caused most inconvenience to airline travelers. Low visibility—or no visibility at all—at Pat Bay and Vancouver airports wiped out all flights Friday night and early this morning.

At 11 a.m., Trans-Canada Airlines was back on normal schedule, but did not expect to maintain it in face of fog forecasts.

Fog-wise B.C. coast seamen kept passenger ships on schedule, and smaller craft out of trouble. B.C. Pilotage Authority was called on to transfer only one pilot in the thick of the fog, and did so with little difficulty.

Fog tonight will no doubt make the Halloween job more difficult for city police. But, in an effort to keep down street rowdiness and irresponsible pranks, at least five organized parties will be held, and dozens of private parties are planned.

CRIPPLING STRIKE ENDS IN BRITAIN

By JOHN DUDMAN

LONDON (Reuters)—Britain's crippling month-long dock strike, which cost the country millions, laid up 358 ships and kept 44,000 longshoremen idle, ended today.

Dock workers at key ports involved endorsed their leaders' proposals for a return to work Monday.

It was the largest dock stoppage since the general strike of 1926. Its spread to "provincial" ports held up imports and exports worth $550,000,000 and cut production in many factories.

The chaotic congestion of shipping and piled-up goods in the ports will take several weeks to clear. Effects of the stoppage will be felt from the factories to the shops for several months.

The end of the strike was signalled by a mass meeting of London dockers.

Before the London vote, sympathy strikers in Liverpool, Tilbury and Hull had decided to go back to work Monday.

Birkhead and Rochester then gave their approval. Manchester and Garston followed, completing the list of eight ports affected in the country-wide walkout.

Strike leaders easily convinced their followers today that they had won enough concessions to justify a return to work.

Only about 10 of the 5,000 dockers present at the mass meeting in London opposed the back-to-work call.

Main grievance in the strike has been the longshoremen's claim that overtime should be voluntary—not compulsory.

The strikers will return to work with an assurance that no one will be punished for refusing overtime. During negotiations overtime will be voluntary.

The B.C. Government Employees' Association convention here passed an answering resolution, which was in effect a mere reaffirmation of the association's policy as set out in its constitution.

"Be it resolved that the delegates in convention reiterate that we shall continue to cooperate with our employer the government of British Columbia, regardless of party or creed, to obtain and maintain the highest degree of efficiency within the government service," said the resolution.

It was passed after many delegates made it clear they bitterly resented the attack made on them by the Socreds, who claimed the government workers are being "wifely inefficient, apparently with a view to discrediting the government for political advantage."

Allege Child Shot, Dropped in Ocean

POWELL RIVER, B.C. (CP)—An Indian fisherman was charged today with the rifle-murder of his four-year-old son.

Charged is Thomas Blaney of the Shiamon Indian reserve near this coastal town.

Police said the child, Ernest Blaney, was shot at a fishing camp 15 miles northwest of here and his body was taken out in a canoe and dropped over the side.

The body was not recovered but RCMP said they had found part of the child's skull blown off by the high-powered rifle.

Police, who did not disclose the motive for the shooting, announced Friday they had taken into custody a suspect known to have been fire-testing a rifle about the time the boy disappeared.

Three RCMP frogmen continued the search for the body today, hampered by thick fog. The boy was reported missing Wednesday, and search of the rugged mountainside adjoining the camp was started. An RCMP police dog was flown to the scene.

Civil Servants Firmly Deny Inefficiency Slur

By TOM GOULD
NANAIMO — British Columbia's civil servants Friday decided to "turn the other cheek" and answer the B.C. Social Credit League's "willful inefficiency" charge with a mild rebuke.

The B.C. Government Employees' Association convention here passed an answering resolution, which was in effect a mere reaffirmation of the association's policy as set out in its constitution.

R. Jones, Terrace, said the speech made at the convention by Provincial Secretary Wesley Black was "a neat piece of surgery" the government was "severed" from its own party, he said, adding: "Mr. Black's speech was not sufficient answer."

Sydney Burton, of Woodlands School, said: "The ministers are already embarrassed. Our president gave a good enough answer. The government would like us to make an irresponsible statement, but I don't think we should do it."
